Hold Operations in Manchuria Do Not Justify Intervention

TOKIO GETS U. S. NOTE

Course of Japanese Government in Reply Still Undetermined

By the Associated Press
Secretary Stimson's note to Japan involving the nine-power act has brought no official reply, but in authoritative circles the opinion was expressed that Japan's operations in Manchuria have not been of a nature to justify intervention by outside powers.

Japan has demanded nothing except respect for her treaty rights, it was said, and even in the face of representations by other powers there is little chance that the Manchurian policy will be modified.

The attempt on the life of Emperor Hirohito was made today as his carriage passed through the streets of Tokyo, but he escaped unharm and the assassin was arrested.

An upshot of this incident the Japanese cabinet submitted its resignation. This is customary after so alarming an event as an attack on the emperor, but the premier was commanded to remain in office until further notice.

Mr. Stimson's note awakened optimism in China, but officials in other parts of the world reserved comment until they had more time to consider the implications of the American action.

Meanwhile Japanese forces remained in occupation of Shanhaiwan, a city at the eastern end of the great wall and the farthest point south to which they have advanced.

Tokio — (AP) — American Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes presented Secretary Stimson's note on the Manchurian situation to the Japanese foreign office late today and official circles expressed the view that the military operations in Manchuria are not of a nature to justify intervention by third powers.

Japanese Ambassador Debutchi also called a text of Secretary Stimson's note, which invoked the nine power treaty, and it was reiterated that Japan has made no demands in Manchuria except with respect to her treaty rights and that, even in the face of the representations of other powers, there is little chance that she will modify her Manchurian policy.

In this connection it was emphasized that any administrative integrity of China proper in Manchuria prior to Sept. 18, 1931, was not destroyed by the Japanese because, it was stated, Nanking had never exercised any real authority whatever in the province.

Hit Chinchow Regime
The Chinchow government, it was said, was nothing more than "a masquerade" designed to disturb peace and order in Manchuria by instigating bandits and other lawless elements.

Whether Japan will reply formally to the American note or publish a statement setting forth her stand has not yet been decided. A government spokesman emphasized, nevertheless, that American rights in Manchuria, regarding which Washington appeared to be concerned, would remain intact.

The present situation, caused by the outbreak of Sept. 18, had hampered business generally, but he said it could not be helped under the circumstances.

"We stand for peace, order and honest government in Manchuria," he said, "and we give every assurance that our policy is one of the

Bomb Target

EMPEROR HIROHITO

Jap Emperor Uninjured In Bomb Attack

Tokio — (AP) — The Japanese government of Premier Inukai, less than a month old, handed its resignation to Emperor Hirohito late today shortly after the emperor had narrowly missed becoming the victim of a bomb.

The premier was instructed by the emperor to continue in office until further orders. The action of the cabinet, in resigning was based on the precedent of the resignation of the "earthquake" cabinet of Premier Yamamoto, which resigned in 1923 after Emperor Hirohito, then prince regent, was fired upon while on his way to open Japanese parliament.

The incident occurred as the carriage of Count Makino was turning into the palace grounds through the famous Sakuradamon, or Cherry field, gate where a number of statesmen were assassinated during Japan's reconstruction period.

The gate is just across the street from metropolitan police headquarters and as the horrified crowd turned to scatter after the explosion burst and soldiers dashed in and arrested a young Korean named Rihodo, who was identified as the assassin.

Another bomb was found in his pocket when he was searched.

The emperor occupied the imperial state carriage. It was drawn by four horses. When the bomb exploded directly in front of him he appeared the least excited person in all the huge crowd. He leaned from the carriage window, endeavoring to see what had happened. The carriage continued on to the palace grounds.

The military review from which he was returning was attended by American Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes and a group of other diplomats and officials.

Former Princeton
CASHIER SENTENCED

Gets 5 to 15 Year Term in Waupun on Plea of Guilty of Embezzling

Fond du Lac — (AP) — Fritz C. Krueger, former cashier of the closed Princeton State bank, was taken to Waupun prison today to serve a five to fifteen-year term imposed on his plea of guilty to charges of embezzling nearly $100,000.

Krueger was charged with 17 counts of embezzlement and falsification of bank records.

Sentence was imposed by Judge C. F. Van Pelt in circuit court here yesterday. Krueger admitted the money was used and lost in stock and grain market transactions between 1927 and 1931. He left the bank's employ about a month before it closed on Sept. 2 and a subsequent audit revealed the speculations.

Frank Mueller, Jr., as assistant cashier charged with embezzlement and falsification of records, pleaded guilty and at a preliminary hearing before a court commissioner in Princeton today was bound over for trial in circuit court. It was charged that Mueller was accessory to deals in which Krueger was involved.

Reorganization of the bank is under way.

NAB SUSPECT IN CALIFORNIA AS
ERDMAN OLSONLos Angeles Authorities
Await Word from Wisconsin Authorities

Los Angeles — (AP) — Awaiting word from authorities at Prairie du Chien, Wis., police here today held a man identified by a former resident of that city as Erdman Olson, wanted on a charge of murdering his sweetheart, Clara Olson in September, 1928.

Although the man in custody denies he is Olson, giving the name of Jerome Hegeman, Los Angeles police sent his photograph and fingerprints to Wisconsin.

The suspect was arrested on a downtown street after Edward Hess, former Prairie du Chien resident, pointed him out to officers. Police said the man arrested bore only slight resemblance to Olson's police circular photograph. He was held for suspicion of murder.

The body of Miss Olson was found Dec. 2, 1926, in a shallow grave near Olson's home. The girl, who was shortly to become a mother was beaten to death. Erdman Olson, 18, a student at Gale college, disappeared before the body was unearthed.

A coroner's inquest held him responsible for the killing. The fugitive failed to heed an appeal by his father, through newspapers and radio, to "come home and clear yourself."

OFFICIALS CAUTIONS
Prairie du Chien — (AP) — Authorities today waited for more definite information from Los Angeles before taking action on bringing here a suspect held in the California city as Erdman M. Olson, who allegedly killed his sweetheart, Clara Olson, in September, 1928.

Efforts to get in touch with Edward Hess, former local resident who now lives in Los Angeles, were futile, officials said. It was Hess who said the suspect, who claims he is Jerome Hegeman, was Olson.

Because Olson has been reported at various times in San Francisco, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Chicago, New York, and other widely scattered points, authorities said they would proceed with the greatest caution.

The murder of Clara Olson remains the most shocking crime in the history of this Kickapoo valley community. Her body was found in a shallow grave near Rising Sun, 30 miles north of here, after she had disappeared from her home some three months before.

Clara had been "keeping company" with Erdman, Gale college student, although their names were the same, they were not related.

Shortly before her disappearance, she confided to her parents that she was about to become a mother. They tried to persuade Erdman to marry her. The youth was non-committal, and rarely appeared at the house after this interview.

About midnight, Sept. 9, the girl went out. Her parents assumed that she went to meet and marry Erdman since she left a note in her room saying she would soon have a "glad surprise" for them.

A few days later, when the girl did not return, her brother and father went to Gale college at Galesville, to demand an explanation. The youth said that he had met her that night, and had taken her to Virginia, 20 miles north of his home. His parents said he was home by 1 o'clock a. m.

Erdman disappeared Sept. 20, leaving a note saying he did not know where Clara was, but that he did not intend to "wait for the sheriff."

Since then no trace of him has been found.

TWO BOYS REPUDIATE MURDER CONFESSIONS

Gallipolis, Ohio — (AP) — Two youths, Albert Ramer and Elsworth Mowmy, who Tuesday told Sheriff Charles Swanson they burned a father and his seven children to death in a log cabin repudiated their confession today.

The two boys previously had described in detail how they went to the log house of James White, 59, during darkness and set the building afire after fastening the doors and windows. They said they were revengeful against White who had beaten Ramer in a fight.

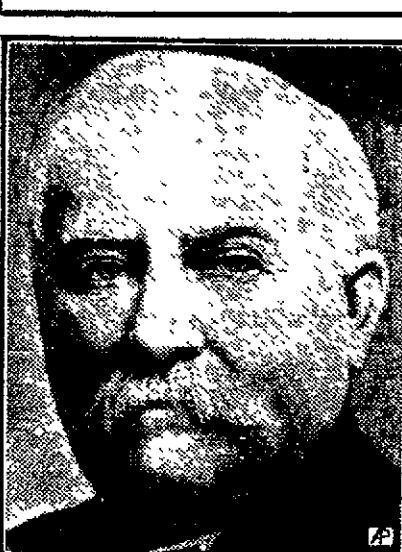

Shortly before they were scheduled to be arraigned this morning the youths told the Sheriff and Prosecutors that they had taken part in the crime.

Frank Mueller, Jr., as assistant cashier charged with embezzlement and falsification of records, pleaded guilty and at a preliminary hearing before a court commissioner in Princeton today was bound over for trial in circuit court. It was charged that Mueller was accessory to deals in which Krueger was involved.

Reorganization of the bank is under way.

J. W. Fordney, Long Representative in Congress, Dies in Michigan

Saginaw, Mich. — (AP) — Joseph Warren Fordney, 78, member of congress for 24 years and co-author of the Fordney-McCumber tariff of 1921, died at his home here at 7:06 a. m., today.

He had been in ill health for months, but death was caused by an attack of erysipelas which developed Sunday. He had been in virtual retirement since 1923, when he completed his twelfth consecutive term in congress as representative of the Eighth Michigan district.

In congress he succeeded the late Ferdinand C. Brucker, Democrat, and father of Michigan's present governor, Wilbur M. Brucker, and built up a tradition of unswerving Republicanism in the Eighth district which was not broken until last year when Representative Michael J. Hart, a Democrat, was elected.

Shawano — (AP) — More than 20 burglaries committed in Shawano-co during the past few months, most of them since Dec. 1, were believed solved today by the confessions of two different groups of youthful bandits, and as a result, seven young men were to be sentenced this afternoon by Judge F. A. Jaekel in county court.

One "gang" composed of Howard Lisch, Earl Thompson, Kermit Kessen, Clarence and Alvin Parsons, all farm lads of about 20 years of age from the vicinity of Bowler, confessed in open court Thursday afternoon to at least five robberies.

William Krueger, 22, and Stephen Laje, 23, both of Shawano, were arrested yesterday on 34 suspects in a number of recent burglaries. When brought before Judge Jaekel in the afternoon, they confessed committing 15 thefts since Dec. 1, among them the burglaries of the National Cheese Producers warehouse and a filling station at Lilla.

STATE TO ACT
ONLY IN EVENT
INDUSTRY WON'TGroves Measure Amended to Make It Appear as Voluntary Plan

Madison — (AP) — The state senate voted last night to make Wisconsin a pioneer in the field of unemployment insurance.

It engrossed and assured passage of an unemployment compensation bill which already had been approved by the assembly but amended it at the request of Senator George Blanchard of Edgerton in such a way as to give it more the aspect of a voluntary plan on the part of industry than a compulsory one. It will go back to the assembly for concurrence.

Proponents of the bill, sponsored by Assemblyman Harold Groves, of Madison, a professor in the economics department of the University of Wisconsin, indicated they were satisfied with the amended measure.

Its principal provisions are: Employers of the state are given until July, 1933, to establish voluntary funds to insure their regularly employed workers against being thrown out of work. Due to the depression and its effect upon the financial condition of industry that concession was made.

Allowance is made for the employer and his employees to contribute jointly, under the voluntary plan, toward the building up of the insurance fund.

Insurance Fund
If, by July, 1933, satisfactory voluntary plans have not been put in force employers of 10 or more persons become compelled to contribute 2 per cent of their payroll to an insurance fund and the state industrial commission will administer benefits.

The maximum benefits under the compulsory law are $10 a week for a period of 10 weeks, with lesser amounts gauged by the time the beneficiaries have been employed.

As prepared by Groves and passed by the assembly the measure provided that 200,000 employees had to be covered by voluntary insurance systems by a year from next July, or the compulsory law would become operative.

The Blanchard amendment changes this to read "half of the eligible employees in the state" which may be a number much less than 200,000.

If the compulsory law becomes operative each employer will contribute 2 per cent of payroll for two years and for such time thereafter until the reserve funds amount to $50 for each person he employs. The contribution then is cut to 1 per cent until the reserve amounts to $75 per employee, when it ceases entirely.

Numerous legal precautions are set up in the bill to restrict its operation in the way of benefits only to persons regarded as regular industrial and business employees.

WOMAN DENIED WRIT

Landscape Design Course Is New Development In Outdoor Beautification

The Appleton class in landscape design, which begins at 7:30 next Tuesday evening for a series of six lectures, is a new development in outdoor beautification which is attracting the interest of home owners in many Wisconsin cities.

Prof. Franz A. Aust, associate professor of horticulture at the University of Wisconsin, is the lecturer. The course is being offered here again by the Appleton Post-Crescent in cooperation with the extension division and vocational school.

Professor Aust is an advocate of simplicity as the basis of modern tendencies in landscape design.

There should be discrimination, he holds, between that which is new and fleeting in landscape gardening and that which is truly beautiful and lasting.

"Art is the embodiment of an idea," he maintains. "On the home grounds the main idea is the home itself. Anything which detracts or doesn't add to the idea of the original house is wasted. A showy bush in front of a house defeats its own purpose; it detracts attention from the house."

"Make the house the central feature, then frame it with trees, flowers or shrubs."

Old Garden Out
"A flower garden merges from a succession of blooms to a succession of colors. In the months when a great many flowers bloom. The old star shaped flower garden in the middle of the front lawn is out."

"Our love of gardening goes back to association with the outdoors where we get our inspiration. Nature can be our guide in our grouping of plants."

"Everyone is familiar with types of unusually successful landscaping endeavors with home grounds. Not everyone, however, has the special Turn to page 4 col. 2

Two Injured
As Car Runs
Into Train

Two young men were injured, one seriously about 2:30 this afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into the locomotive of the northbound North Western passenger train at the Eighth-st. crossing.

George Stewart, Jr., 23, 1113 W. Eighth-st., received a fractured right leg and serious scalp wounds.

His companion, E. J. Gerhart, 208 N. Superior-st., driver of the car, was thrown into the ditch on the north side of the street and east of the tracks. Stewart was thrown clear of the car and into the ditch on the south side of the street.

Gerhart reported that he did not see the car until they were about 60 feet from the crossing. He said that when he attempted to apply the brakes, the car skidded on the icy surface of the road, running directly into the locomotive.

Milwaukee — (AP) — A woman today petitioned County Judge Michael S. Sheridan to declare her former husband legally dead and award her $1,260 for unpaid alimony from an inheritance of the man.

The woman, Mrs. Clara Landers, said she had not heard from her husband, Walter, since 1921. She obtained an uncontested divorce in 1923 and Walter was ordered to pay $50 a month and $20 a month for support of their daughter, Alice, now 11. Walter is the only heir to a $8,000 estate left by his father.

Revenue Bill Has Democratic

Opposition

Washington — (AP) — Hopful of sending the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation measure to the house before the week-end, senatorial advocates of the proposal remained silent today to permit the opposition to wear itself out.

As debate began for the second day, Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, said he would like the senate to act by nightfall but if this were not done a strong effort would be made for passage tomorrow.

Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, led off with an assault on the measure after which a number of amendments were acted on.

Washington — (AP) — The reconstruction corporation and the Democratic tariff bill engaged the senate and house today in debate that was expected to end by tomorrow with passage of the proposals.

From ranks of Republican independents, Senator Blaine directed an assault on the proposal to give federal backing to a huge corporation for spreading credit. His objections did not command such support as to threaten the legislation, however. House approval next week also is looked upon as certain.

Republicans condemned and Democrats sanctioned the tariff bill, the prospect being for a straight party vote on it. How the senate will receive the measure remains to be seen.

Committees of both branches accumulated reams of testimony on proposals to allow lowering of beer to build up the navy and for federal relief to the unemployed, along with other topics.

Confident of early congressional approval, President Hoover is ready to put the plan into immediate execution in an effort to improve business conditions.

Blaine, a Wisconsin Republican, asserted the bill had been approved by the senate committee without hearing a single witness interested in agriculture or agricultural finance.

Charges Self-Interest
"The testimony before the committee," Blaine said, "is testimony of interested persons, interested in their own welfare and the welfare of the institutions they represent."

Senator Lewis of Illinois, in his first speech since his recent return to the senate, advocated an amendment to restrain courts from entering judgment in any proceedings brought against those who may be beneficiaries of the reconstruction corporation pending administration of the new corporation.

"While the loan bill was being put into effect," he added, "thousands of farmers were evicted and lost their land and mortgages were foreclosed."

Heopes for enactment of the reconstruction measure by nightfall was expressed by Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader.

The dominant bi-partisan senate group supporting the measure was determined to leave debate up to the opposition to spend enactment.

A stack of amendments confronted the bill. If action were not taken by noon tomorrow, it was the intention of leaders to go into session tomorrow in an effort to get the bill to the house before the end of the week.

Senate Awaits Assembly Action On Nelson $7,000,000 Relief Bill

HOLDS UP VOTE ON COMPROMISE LAW PROPOSAL

Upper House Adopts Resolution Asking Congress for Legal Beer

Madison—(P)—The assembly will have to dispose of the Nelson $7,000,000 unemployment relief bill before it gets an answer from the senate on Governor LaFollette's compromise proposal for $10,000,000.

Such was the pronouncement of the senate majority when the upper house decided last night, 16 to 15, to table the administration measure, after Senator Philip Nelson of Maple, had offered an amendment to include in it a $1,000,000 fund for forestry work.

Four per cent beer took precedence over the relief issue in the senate. With five members dissenting, it adopted a resolution by Senator Walter Polakowski, Milwaukee Socialist, memorializing congress to legalize beer and thereby "revive a one billion dollar industry, give employment to at least 1,250,000 persons and afford a profitable market for 80,000,000 bushels of grain."

The decision not to vote for the present on the $10,000,000 relief bill was reached in a matter of minutes. Senator Ben Gettelman, Milwaukee, moved to defer action.

He pointed out that the senate already has passed and sent to the lower house Nelson's $7,000,000 relief proposal, embodying a different principle of financing than the administration plan and that no further move should be made until the assembly does something about it.

Non-concurrence in the Nelson bill was a certainty, for the Progressive majority in the assembly tabled it last Monday in favor of the Beggs-LaFollette compromise.

Table Relief Bill

Those voting to table the $10,000,000 bill were:

Barker, Blanchard, Boldt, Carroll, Daggett, Edwards, Fellner, Gettelman, Goodland, Hall, Michigan, Morris, Mueller, Nelson, Roethke and Shaver.

Nelson's move to amend the measure was understood to be only a step to make it correspond with the provision of his own plan, which appropriates $1,000,000 for forestry work in addition to $6,000,000 for direct aid to localities.

Indications were that the assembly would take his bill from the table today and formally vote it down.

Senator Polakowski read into the senate journal last night the Socialist viewpoint on unemployment relief, following up Senator Walter S. Goodland's attack on Governor LaFollette for the latter's special message to the legislature, and the reply by Senator John Cashman, criticizing Goodland.

"While the Progressives act as nursemaid for the crumpling system of capitalism through application of relief, and the conservatives are helping the disabled system of greed to sound its death knell, the Socialists believe and are confident that only through organized use of the ballot by the masses can this unjust, destructive system be changed."

"We Socialists fully understand that a relief measure, no matter if it be $50,000,000, will be no more than another patch for the already crumpling system of capitalism and no remedy for the unemployed."

Bank Robbers and Captors

Here are Orin C. Hall, 31, Fond du Lac, and James E. Moss, Taycheedah, with their captors, Sheriff Gerhard Jensen of Calumet-co and Detective F. W. Schlaak of Fond du Lac. Moss and Hall, who are in the center, confessed participating in the robbery of the DeForest bank on Dec. 19 when the robbers escaped with $400 which they scooped up in the teller's cage. Sheriff Jensen is at the extreme left and Officer Schlaak at the right. Moss is wearing the leather helmet.

Moss also confessed to several burglaries in Stockbridge, including the high school, John Moehrs' general store and the Krank Kramer garage. Hall, who formerly lived at Stockbridge, admitted taking part only in the bank robbery.

Apprehension of the two men followed the arrest of John Schleyer, who confessed in Madison that he was one of the DeForest robbers. Schleyer would not implicate Hall and Moss, but they were picked up because authorities learned the three had been associating intimately. The confessions name a fourth man, who is being held in Madison.

DEFECTIVE TEETH COMMON AILMENT

Many School Children Are Among Victims, Nurses' Report Shows

Teeth defects are the most prevalent of ailments among Appleton school children, according to the monthly report of the school nurses. One hundred and eleven children have been found to have defective teeth, with 45 showing throat defects in health examinations during November and December.

In school health work Miss Mary Orblison and Miss Jane Barclay, school nurses, made 263 visits to public schools during these two months. Complete health examinations numbered 332 and examinations for communicable diseases numbered 848. One hundred and nine children were found to be normal, while 223 had defects of some sort.

Twenty-eight cases of malnutrition were found, 87 cases of poor posture, nine defective eye cases, 26 children with defective vision, four children with defective ears, and three with poor hearing, 111 with defective teeth, three with defective gums, four with obstructed nasal passages. Twelve children were found to have defective skins, eight with nervous system irregularities and seven with speech defects.

EXPERTS WILL TELL HOW TO GET BUSINESS

Conference for Merchants Scheduled for Next Tuesday and Wednesday

A wealth of practical information gained from the experience of many merchants, looking to more efficient store management methods, is promised by the speakers representing the University of Wisconsin Extension division when they address the conference of Appleton store executives here next Tuesday and Wednesday.

According to the program outline, announced today, the conference leaders, Dean Richard E. Ellingwood and Dr. H. R. Doering, will direct attention specifically to ways of getting more profitable business for stores, making the advertising more effective, reducing the bad debt losses and collecting past-due accounts.

These talks, particularly as they relate to advertising, credits and collections, also will apply in many respects to the problems of men in other businesses and in professions.

The conference will open Tuesday noon at a luncheon meeting with the Rotary club at Hotel Northern. Dr. Doering will speak on "Strategy in Granting Credit," giving suggestions on how much credit business should be carried, how merchants and others can select good credit risks, and how they can best their collection efficiency. He also will discuss the values of installment credit as compared with book accounts.

Discuss Advertising
Dean Ellingwood will address the first evening meeting, to be held at the vocational school, on "Getting Results from Advertising." He will discuss the kind of advertising to be used, how much money should be spent, how advertising can be made to "pull" better and when and what a merchant should advertise. A large number of slides and exhibits depicting recent advertisements from Wisconsin newspapers, will be shown to assist in evaluating the effectiveness of these advertisements

The Wednesday noon meeting, to be held at the Conway hotel in conjunction with the luncheon of the Kiwanis club, will be addressed by Mr. Ellingwood, who will speak on "Using Psychology in Business." He will endeavor to answer such questions as: How can psychology help me in selling; how can psychology assist me to make friends and get along better with people; how can I get others to agree with me, and what should I do to win an argument?

The problem of collecting past due accounts will come up at the session Wednesday evening at the vocational school, with Mr. Doering discussing the following questions: How can I prevent accounts from becoming ing outlawed; how may I trace "slips"; how can I check the "deadbeat"; what makes a follow-up system effective; how useful are stickers, inserts, and written notations; how should the telephone be used to collect money, and how may forged checks be detected?

Mr. Doering also will make suggestions on building up sales volume, giving attention to such questions as locating the most profitable customers in the store and serving them more efficiently, and increasing sales by concentrating on particular merchandise habitually sought by customers.

A discussion of effective direct mail advertising, led by Mr. Ellingwood is the final feature Wednesday evening.

Democratic national committee. The candidacy of Albert C. Ritchie, governor of Maryland, was formally announced. His was the first hat of any size actually thrown into the Democratic ring. The declaration came last night in Baltimore, at a party banquet which centered around the vigorous chief executive of the free state.

Tonight comes the big Jackson day banquet of the party. Hundreds will sit down at table to hear Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, James M. Cox, their presidential choices of other years. Is Smith seeking the mantle again? The Democrats are asking themselves and one another, but have received no hint of an answer from the New Yorker.

Tomorrow the national committee of the party will meet, and it is toward that session that all the supporters of the various candidates are bending their attention. The Roosevelt forces feel certain they would control the vote on everything of importance that will come up. They expect to block any further effort to bring to committee consideration of the plan of John Raskob for state liquor control. The national chairman himself has promised he will not attempt it, but committee men favorable to his view may make a try.

The Rooseveltians also expressed confidence they could take the convention to Kansas City, preferring that midwestern point to San Francisco and to Chicago and Atlantic City. The time of meeting now is tentatively put at June 24, ten days after the Republicans open their national gathering in Chicago. The Raskob suggestion for meeting ahead of the G. O. P. went quietly by the boards without argument. A practical reason, unconnected with the other party, is that congress will almost surely be in session as late as the first week in June.

RITCHIE PUTS JOBLESS AID UP TO INDUSTRIES

Presidential Candidate Says Business Must Take Care of Its Workers

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In his speech at the Jackson Day banquet at Baltimore, in which he announced his willingness to become a candidate for the presidency, Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland declared that the obligation of unemployment rests upon industry itself. Here he explains what he means by that statement and gives his position on an issue that may play a major part in his presidential campaign.)

BY ROBERT TALLEY
(Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.)
Baltimore, Md.—The problem of America's 8,000,000 jobless rests squarely on the shoulders of business and industry.

Business and industry should make provision for caring for their employees in times of depression.

If they do not accept this responsibility, Congress or the state legislatures may be forced by public demand to enact some sort of governmental unemployment insurance plan which would be as burdensome on taxpayers as the dole system that now weighs upon England.

These are the views of Governor Albert C. Ritchie, first major presidential candidate to announce for that office. They were expressed by Maryland's Democratic chief executive, four times elected to that office, in an exclusive interview here.

"These are preventive days," Governor Ritchie began. "There is prevention of illness by health measures, prevention of accidents by safety measures and many other forms of prevention.

"Maybe we can't prevent unemployment, but we can do something to alleviate it when it comes.

"We do have periods of recurring unemployment. Mr. Hoover says we have passed through 15 major depressions in the past century. If we didn't have unemployment we wouldn't have Socialism, Communism, Hitlerism and the like.

"We Must Look Ahead"

"I think we should look ahead with reference to a man's job in the same way that we look ahead to other things.

"The best method that I know of is to set aside some kind of insurance reserve when times are good so when forced unemployment comes we will have that to draw on.

"There are two ways this can be done.

"The federal or state governments can raise or contribute to such a fund.

"Industry can raise such a fund, with labor contributing its share.

"Various European countries have found that a government unemployment insurance system, or a dole, is a fearful burden on the taxpayers.

For President

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, who yesterday said he was willing to be a candidate for president of the United States, believes that finding work for the jobless is primarily the responsibility of industry and business and that the government should step in only when these other agencies fail or refuse to discharge their duty.

Such plans have drained the treasuries in Germany and England.

"We don't want anything like that. We want to avoid it.

"Industry and business should assume this responsibility. It is a social obligation that belongs to them.

"They set aside a reserve for dividends so that stockholders can be paid when depression comes.

"They set aside a fund for depreciation so their machinery and equipment can be taken care of.

"They have a sinking fund for protection of their bond issues.

"They make provision to take care of injured employees.

"About the only thing that they don't set aside for is labor, upon which all business and industry depends.

"Must Protect Benefactors

"Industry and business, which get complete benefit out of labor when times are good, should make some provision for protecting labor when times are bad.

"Such a plan is fundamentally sound. Of course, there can be raised against it many objections like seasonal unemployment, etc. But these objections can be ironed out. The principle stands.

"About 15 large concerns, one of which is the General Electric Company, already have plans of this kind. About 20 industries here in Baltimore are already at work on such plans.

"Various plans have been put forward. There are details of application, of course—such as the system, proportion and source of contributions to the fund—that must be

$224 COLLECTED IN FINES AND COSTS IN COURT LAST MONTH

Business Was Very Light During December, Says Municipal Reporter

Seventeen lawbreakers paid fines and costs totaling $224.59 in municipal court during December, according to the monthly report of William R. Kreiss, municipal court reporter. It was one of the lightest months of the year, according to Mr. Kreiss. In addition to the 17 who paid fines there were nine defendants sentenced to jail, four cases were dismissed, and 14 defendants were bound over for trial.

Under state statutes there were fines of $85.25, costs of $36.44, and officers' fees of $2.50 collected. Arrests under state laws were as follows: drunkenness, 6; larceny, 4; non-support, 4; assault and battery, 2; drunken driving, 2; and one each for arson, operating a car without consent of the owner and illegitimacy.

There was $55 in fines, $24 in costs, and $11.40 in fees collected under city ordinances. Arrests were as follows: parking offenses, 7; speeding, 8; and one each for operating a bus without a license, drunkenness, disorderly conduct, assault and battery, reckless driving, drunken driving and jumping an arterial.

Under county ordinances there was one arrest for reckless driving and a fine of $1 was collected.

worked out. But far-seeing business men realize its necessity.

"However, neither this nor any other plan can stop recurrent unemployment. At intervals, hard times are bound to come. But when hard times do come such a plan would help out and alleviate the situation until good times return.

"We can't have 8,000,000 persons out of work in this country without tremendous pressure being brought to bear upon Congress to do something about it. If business and industry don't accept this responsibility, government will, and the danger is that something like England's or Germany's burdensome plan will be forced upon us.

"With 15 major depressions in the past 100 years, it is about time we began looking ahead to the next one before it closes in on us. If business and industry don't take hold of this situation, Congress or the state legislatures—or both—will do it and are very likely to apply measures that would be a huge drain on our treasury and foreign to American standards and institutions," Ritchie said.

As for relieving existing unemployment distress, Governor Ritchie believes this the duty of local relief agencies and believes that they will be able to do it with their own relief funds—certainly in his own state of Maryland. If not, he says, then assistance becomes the duty of the city government, next the state government and, finally, the national government. For, he says, protection of citizens is the purpose of all government.

BOSSER NAMED PRESIDENT OF OUTAGAMIE BAR

Organization of Wisconsin Supreme Court Explained by Justice Wickhem

A. C. Bosser, city attorney was unanimously elected president of the Outagamie Bar association to succeed C. G. Cannon at the annual meeting at Hotel Northern Thursday evening. A dinner preceded the business session.

John Lonsdorf was elected vice president, and Miss Patricia Ryan was re-elected secretary and treasurer. J. P. Frank and Homer H. Benton were re-elected to the executive committee. Officers of the organization also will serve on that committee.

The efficiency of the seven-man setup in the Wisconsin supreme court was explained by Justice John D. Wickhem, Madison. He also traced the procedure involved in handling hundreds of cases of every description each year.

He outlined the events through the five week calendar period during which time the case is diagnosed and prepared for hearing. He pointed out that opinions in every case go the rounds of all judges in the supreme court, and every member of the court studies each case.

Lower Error Margin

The thesis of the seven-man setup is the reduction of the error margin, the speaker said. During the course of a number of years, each of the men gets a fair cross section view of almost every kind of case handled by the court, because he is confronted with each case.

"There are no specialists on the supreme court, although a lot of people may think so," Justice Wickhem said. "With seven men working cooperatively day after day, there is little chance for specialization."

Justice Wickhem said he believed that a case which is carried along from four to five years is miscarriage of justice. He said the Wisconsin supreme court works until the calendar is finished, so that real justice can be meted out.

He talked in favor of oral argument in the supreme court, pointing out that after verbal discussion, when a clear picture of the case has been presented to each of the justices, the rugged edges are pretty well in evidence.

Justice Wickhem said he also favored an intimate relation between the bench and the bar, because it tends to bring harmony in law, which after all is of utmost importance to human society.

WOMEN WIN PRIZES AT BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

Mrs. Paul Scallon and Mrs. A. Peterson Score Double Honors

Mrs. Paul Scallon and Mrs. R. A. Peterson, playing the east west position in the second round of a 19 session contract bridge tournament at the Elks club last night, won prizes for both the highest net and highest gross scores. David Smith and John Neller won the highest net score among the north and south teams, while Royal LaRose and D. R. Morrissey, also playing north and south, won the highest gross score.

There were eight tables or 32 players entered in the second session of the tournament, which is sponsored by the Appleton Contract Bridge Players' association. At the first session two weeks ago seven tables were in play.

Sessions are played the first and third Thursdays of each month, with teams changing positions at alternate sessions. Duplicate hands are played, thus giving each team a chance to play every hand. Players are divided into two leagues, the National and the American. At the end of the 19 sessions the high scorers in each league will meet for the city championship.

Kading And Nelson Put In Same District Under Assembly Bill

MEASURE WINS APPROVAL IN LOWER HOUSE

Outagamie, Calumet, Winnebago, Manitowoc and Brown in 8th District

Madison—(P)—A bill putting Congressmen John Nelson, Madison, and Charles Kading, Watertown, in the same district was the congressional reapportionment measure which passed today as the assembly's choice.

After a two-hour struggle late yesterday the lower house engrossed the measure by a 39 to 29 vote. It was introduced by assemblyman John Fronck, Antigo, as the second substitute to a measure submitted by Assemblyman Ben Tremaine, Hustler.

The assembly gave tentative approval to the Fronck substitute over the Tremaine bill which placed Congressmen Gerald Boleau, Waupun, and James Frear, Appleton, in the same district and a substitute by Assemblyman Chippewa Falls, which also put Kading and Nelson in the same district.

Assemblyman David Sigman, Two Rivers, wanted Keweenaw co. hitched to Manitowoc but Assemblyman Jacob Blahnik, Keweenaw, said "we are more than pleased to stay where we are." Sigman's amendment was killed 65 to 39. Assemblyman Rasmussen, the Fremont bill "political engineering," but his substitute was in turn assailed as a "dry" scheme and one which sought to make ideal districts for two congressmen.

Assemblyman Robert Nixon, Washburn, assailed the Rasmus plan because it made northern Wisconsin into a district of about 900 square miles in area. He also said it added three dry counties to the third district and made it ideal for the Seventh and Ninth district, congressmen while making shrewdness out of the other districts.

Harper Office Bill
Assemblyman Hugh Harper, Lancaster, who advocated passage of the Rasmus substitute, turned up a plan of his own, when the assembly engrossed the Fronck plan. Harper's substitute calls for the election of all 10 congressmen at large. The placing of Kading, a wet, in the Third district is believed to be the main objection to the relatively dry southwestern counties.

The Fronck plan is as follows:
1. Green, Kenosha, Racine, Rock and Manitowish. 2. Dodge, Fond du Lac, Ozaukee, Sheboygan, Washington and Waukesha. 3. Columbia, Crawford, Dane, Grant, Iowa, Jefferson, LaPayette and Richland. 4. Milwaukee. 5. Milwaukeee. 6. Adams, Green Lake, Juneau, La Crosse, Marquette, Monroe, Portage, Sauk, Vernon, Waushara and Wood.

7. Door, Florence, Forest, Keweenaw, Langlade, Marathon, Marinette, 8. Brown, Calumet, Manitowoc, Outagamie and Winnebago. 9. Buffalo, Chippewa, Clark, Dunn, Eau Claire, Jackson, Pepin, Pierce, Trempealeau and St. Croix. 10. Ashland, Barron, Bayfield, Burnett, Douglas, Iron, Lincoln, Oneida, Polk, Price, Rusk, Sawyer, Taylor, Vilas and Washburn.

The assembly engrossed the Eber chain store tax bill by an overwhelming vote and passed a bill permitting counties to come under the statute on "temporary borrowings." A bill authorizing the board of deposits to permit public depositories to receive larger deposits than are allowed at present was also given final approval.

BURNS ARE FATAL TO TOWN OF ONEIDA CHILD

Funeral services were held Thursday morning for Benedict Parkhurst, two-and-a-half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Parkhurst of Oneida, who died yesterday of burns received Tuesday.

The child reached to the stove and pulled a pot of scalding coffee, which spilled over his entire body. He was fatally burned and passed away 24 hours later. Funeral services were held Thursday morning from the Episcopal church at Oneida.

CANADIAN COINS IN CIRCULATION HERE ON INCREASE

Some of Appleton's merchants are noticing what they believe to be an unusually heavy influx of small Canadian coins, for which passers are demanding the same value as American coins.

Appleton bankers point out that while the exchange rate between Canada and the United States fluctuates daily, that Canadian money now is worth only about 80 per cent as much as American coins. They report that they are following their regular custom of accepting this money at the current exchange rate.

They pointed out that merchants who accept Canadian coins also should discount them to avoid a loss.

One banker said that he believes the number of Canadian coins brought in at the present time for exchange is lower than it has been in recent years. He said he thought people are aware that Canadian money is worth less than American pieces of the same denomination.

BARGAIN WITH HITLER MAY STRIKE SNAG IN CHANCELLOR'S CAMP

Rift Expected if National Socialists Are Given Posts in Cabinet

Berlin—(AP)—A possibility that large groups of Chancellor Heinrich Brüning's present followers may balk at any proposal to "deal" with Adolf Hitler, or to give the National Socialists posts in the cabinet was predicted in political circles and by some Berlin newspapers today.

The Socialist paper Vorwaerts said that while the Socialists favor retaining the veteran Paul von Hindenburg as president they will not permit a "bargain" between the government and the rightists to keep him there.

The Morgan Post said it learned the Nazis have demanded two cabinet posts as the price of harmony.

With this situation in mind political observers hesitated to guess what will be the result of the chancellor's attempt to secure a "standstill" agreement, begun when he conferred with Hitler yesterday.

The purpose of the suggested agreement was taken to be the uniting of various political parties to secure the reelection of President von Hindenburg and to present a united German front to the world on the eve of important international conferences.

Conferees with Socialist leaders were held by the government yesterday. Without the assent of two-thirds of the Reichstag the clause which limits the president's term to seven years cannot be changed, and consequently agreement of the National Socialists and the Socialists, the two groups farthest apart in Germany's political line, would be needed. They have 107 and 143 votes, respectively.

President von Hindenburg was placed in office originally through the support of the rightist groups, but he has proved a rugged defender of the present constitutional Democracy since then, and that is the form the Hitlerites have criticized most.

The Brüning-Hitler conference yesterday was said to have been characterized by "a friendly tone," however, and the belief prevailed here that this indicated Hitler's desire to prolong the president's term, but it was added that it will take the chancellor's persuasive powers to hold his own Social Democrats in line.

AID REFORESTATION, SCHNEIDER IS URGED

In cooperation with Wisconsin clubwomen, the Appleton Woman's club sent a telegram Thursday to Congressman George J. Schneider urging him to support the reforestation program in the northern part of the state. The directors met Thursday morning at the Playhouse.

The board also discussed the possibilities of a full unemployment drive. Contributions were voted to the Wisconsin Conference of Social Workers, crippled children and the state federation loan fund to assist girls with educations.

It was also decided to hold a baby clinic at the clubhouse every third Friday of the month under the direction of the club health department.

PASSES CAR ON HILL; FINED $5 AND COSTS
Martin Jansen, Little Chute, was fined $5 and costs in municipal court Friday morning on a charge of passing an automobile on the hill at the west entrance into Little Chute on Highway 41. He was arrested Thursday by Officer Peter Van Oudenhoven of the sheriff's office.

JUDGE WERNER SCORES STATE CRIMINAL CODE

Wisconsin Far Behind in Dealing With Criminals, He Tells Club

Assailing the criminal code in Wisconsin as antiquated and far behind modern life, Judge Edgar V. Werner told the Optimists club Thursday at their luncheon meeting at Conway hotel that this state needs an institution in which to put men for repairs and scientific cure. He pointed out that if a criminal proves to be beyond repair he should be put in Waupun state prison for life where he will not endanger society.

"It is not reformation or punishment that will deter crime but development and cure," he said. "We need to declare a moratorium on highways and parks and build an institution where criminals may be studied from a psychiatric, mental and hygienic viewpoint."

"Penalties in Wisconsin laws are out of harmony with justice. No provision is made in the present laws for probation without special consideration. The only allowance for sentences is found in the latitude of punishment which ranges from one to 20 years imprisonment."

Judge Werner believes that a court should try a criminal but that a special organization formed for the purpose should investigate criminal cases to diagnose the various persons in determining whether they are dangerous to society or whether they are able to learn. An organization of this type was suggested to the state legislature a few years ago but was defeated.

"Capital punishment hasn't stopped murder," he said, "and neither has life imprisonment." The organization should be constructive and consistent. Cure and protection of society should take the place of reformation if others are to be deterred in crime. The past history, the heredity, circumstances of the crime and the mental condition of a criminal should be considered while the facts are before the court."

Judge Werner explained the workings of a corrective organization. He said that the various types of criminals should be classified into groups such as those who are dangerous to society, those who have become criminals through ignorance or inadvertence, those who are mental cases, and lastly the group who are first offenders. He declared that repeaters in crime are the most dangerous lot of criminals and should be looked up so that they can't mingle or touch society.

Under the present system offenders mingle with the worst offenders whose ideas on justice are warped. He pointed out further that Waupun is not a place for men charged with non-support or abandonment or for the class of older men whose mental condition has led them to take liberties with women.

Judge Werner quoted facts and figures to show that the state prison is overcrowded in that it was originally built to hold 500 prisoners, but now more than 1,600 are imprisoned there. He said that 640 offenders were committed to the institution between July, 1930, and July, 1931. He also discussed the old building itself which today has no modern sewage system.

"If an institution doesn't bring out a better man than the state put in, nothing has been accomplished, he said." The law should be enforced, but enforced with the right facts. We have disregarded the progress of the human mind. The state has overlooked, in its commercial progress, the need to investigate the procedure and results of present criminal law."

111 STUDENTS ARE EXAMINED AT CLINIC

One hundred and eleven high school students were examined in the first two days of the health clinic which opened Thursday at the Appleton Woman's club under the auspices of the Outagamie Medical society and Appleton high school.

Miss Mary Orison, school nurse in charge of the clinic, reports that the student health is very good thus far with the exception of poor posture and teeth defects.

The clinic will continue through next week with the exception of Friday until every high school student has been examined. Visitors from the Woman's club, organized under Mrs. A. G. Meating, are in charge of records, local doctors are giving the examinations with the assistance of city nurses. About 60 students are examined every day in the two hour period in which the clinic is held.

EDITOR QUILTS JOB ON LAWRENCE NEWSPAPER

Announcement was made today of the resignation of Edwin West as the editor of the Lawrence college newspaper, "The Lawrentian." The resignation was accepted by the Lawrentian board of control Wednesday afternoon.

West is the second editor to relinquish his duties in as many months. Howard Klatt resigning two months ago. Upon the resignation of Klatt, West gave up his duties as business manager to take over the editorship. A desire to pursue work in other fields is given as the reason for West's resignation.

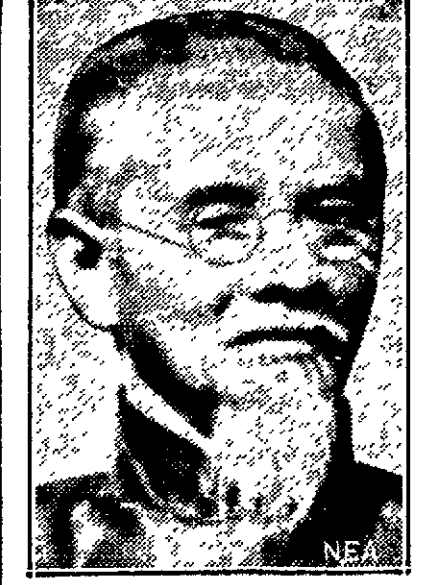

A new editor will be appointed at a meeting of the board of control Monday afternoon.

BANDED BIRD LIVED HERE ALL ITS LIFE

Information just received here offers additional proof that bluejays seldom fly far from the nests in which they were born or the localities in which they grew to maturity. Recently a banded bluejay apparently killed by an air rifle was found in Jones park by Donald Killoren, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Killoren, 330 W. Seventh-st., and investigation disclosed that the bird was banded by Mrs. H. E. Peabody, 302 E. Lawrence-st., May 9, 1929. On March 13, 1930 the bird was trapped by Alfred S. Bradford, 312 W. Prospect-ave., who noted the number and immediately released it. Both Mrs. Peabody and Mr. Bradford are co-operating with the department of Biological Survey of the United States government in the study of bird habits.

STUDENTS BANK $519 AS YEAR 1931 ENDS

School banking receipts totaled $519.11 for the last banking day in 1931, before the Christmas vacation. McKinley junior high school is the only school in the city with a perfect record, having banked 100 per cent every week since school began in September. McKinley grade school and Columbus have a 90 or higher percentage, with the following schools in respective percentage order: Richmond, Franklin, Lincoln, Roosevelt, First ward, Jefferson, Orthopedic schools, Wilson junior high school, Washington grade school, Appleton high school and the opportunity room.

URGENT REBUILDING OF HORTONVILLE BRIDGE

C. H. Kirch, bridge engineer with the state highway commission, in a letter to P. R. Appleton, highway commissioner, advises that plans be started at once for rebuilding the bridge across the river at Hortonville on County Trunk M. Kirch points out that a recent inspection of the bridge by department engineers revealed that the structure is obsolete and in such bad shape that it would be impractical to spend money in repairing it. His letter outlines in detail the facts the inspection revealed and he urges the highway department to make plans for a new bridge as soon as possible.

JUDGE WERNER HEARS CIRCUIT COURT CASE

Only one of the adjourned September calendar circuit court cases set for Jan. 7 by Judge Edgar V. Werner was heard Thursday. Nine cases were scheduled but two were settled, one was continued, and the others were not reported on, according to Sidney M. Shannon, clerk of circuit court.

ENGLISH PIANISTS PLAY IN APPLETON NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT

Ethel Bartlett, Rae Robertson Coming Here Under Artist Series

Two of England's most successful pianists, Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson, who, after winning enviable successes individually, are now achieving triumphs together, will play at Memorial chapel Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Community Artist series.

Ethel Bartlett was born and educated in London. A winner of the Associated Board Scholarship, she studied at the Royal Academy of Music with Frederick Moore and Tobias Matthay, and in Berlin with Arthur Schnabel.

Rae Robertson, born near Inverness in Scotland, studied with Philip Halstead, Edinburgh, while preparing for his M. A. degree at the university there. He won the Bucher scholarship for music and was preparing to go to Berlin when the war broke out. Instead, he came to London, studying for a short time at the Royal Academy with Matthay, until he joined the Army.

In 1925 the two gave their first joint recital, which was an instantaneous success. Since, they have made a name for themselves in London, through Great Britain and Ireland, and in Germany and Holland, winning praise everywhere they appear.

In 1928 they came to the United States for the first time, and established a reputation here at once. They returned for more extensive tours the following two seasons, playing in the larger music centers.

Their 1931-32 tour in this country is limited to Nov. 1 to Feb. 1, during which time they will be heard from New York to California. A happy blending of personalities and two instruments in a program of unusual interest makes the Bartlett-Robertson concert events wherever they are heard. Especially popular on university and music club courses, the programs are, however, not exclusively for the "high-brow," but combine a high artistic standard with a maximum of entertainment value.

DEATHS

MRS. ANGELINE BESCHTA
Mrs. Angeline Beschta, 82, Grand Chute, died at 6 o'clock Thursday evening at the home of her son, Arthur, route 1, Black Creek, where she had been confined during a nine weeks' illness. Born in Germany, she came to America at the age of four years, settling with her family at Newburg. In 1873 she was married at Newburg to Joseph Beschta, after which they moved to Ellington. They lived there for 14 years, in Appleton for 18, and for the past 15 years in Grand Chute. Survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Catherine Fischer and Mrs. Susan Buss, Appleton; and Mrs. Anna Hoier, Hortonville; three sons, Anthony, Black Creek; Peter, Hortonville; and Matt, route 1, Appleton; one brother, John Hoff, Milwaukee; 36 grandchildren and 29 great grandchildren. The body can be viewed at the Wichmann Funeral home from Saturday until the time of the funeral, which will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning from the funeral home, with services at 3:30 at St. Theresa church. The Rev. M. J. Hauch will be in charge, and burial will be in Riverside cemetery.

MRS. FRED KOSTITZKE

Mrs. Fred Kostitzke, 73, 1515 N. Clark-st., died suddenly Thursday evening from a paralytic stroke at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. W. Schroeder, route 4, Appleton, where she had been visiting. Survivors are the widow; one daughter, Mrs. Schroeder; five sons, Herman, Frank, Otto, Henry and Edward; Appleton; and 10 grandchildren. The body will be taken from the Wichmann Funeral home to the residence, N. Clark-st., Saturday morning. The funeral will be held at 1:30 Monday afternoon from the home, with services at 2 o'clock at St. Paul Lutheran church. The Rev. T. J. Sauer will be in charge, and burial will be in Riverside cemetery.

MRS. A. C. PLAPPERT

Mrs. A. C. Plappert, wife of the first resident pastor of First Reformed church, Appleton, died Tuesday at Sheboygan after a long illness. Survivors are the widow, two daughters, Gertrude and Emma, and one son, Theodore, all of Sheboygan. The funeral was held Friday afternoon at Sheboygan. The Plapperts left Appleton in June 1914.

DYTON A. COLLAR

Dyton Alanson Collar, 80, died Friday Morning at Hortonville after an illness of three years. During the last year he was confined to his bed. Mr. Collar was born June 22, 1851, in Howard, Steuben-co., N. Y., and came with his parents to Hortonville when an infant. He was educated in the schools at Hortonville and then engaged in farming for six years. Later he opened a general merchandising business in Hortonville which he conducted for six years and then built the Collar block, where he also engaged in business, kept the Delmonico hotel for several years and the Globe hotel, Appleton, located where the Brendt-bldg now stands.

He was Hortonville mail messenger for many years, a deputy sheriff, having received his first appointment from Sheriff A. B. Everts, and was reappointed several other sheriffs. He also was justice of the peace at Hortonville for many years. He was a member of the Demo-

DESCRIBES NEW STAMP AT SOCIETY MEETING

A description of the new Washington bicentennial stamp being issued by the U. S. Postal department in commemoration of the two hundredth birthday anniversary of George Washington's birthday was given in a talk by M. F. Hatch, president of the Appleton Philatelic society at a meeting in Conway hotel Thursday evening. The program was arranged by Mr. Hatch, and Peter Vanden Brand, secretary. An exhibit of various covers and stamps was made following the dinner meeting.

JUVENILE CRIME GANG IS BROKEN UP

Oconto Curfew Law Expected to Help Combat Further Thefts in City

Oconto—(P)—With the revival of the curfew ordinance and apprehension of a juvenile theft group known as "The Secret Six," authorities today expressed belief that a recent outbreak of petty crimes here will cease.

Four youths were sentenced and three others were placed on probation after admitting almost nightly forays during the last two months in which they burglarized eight stores and homes.

Circuit Judge Arnold Murphy sentenced Leo Adams, 19, to one year in Green Bay reformatory and Vester Belongia, 18, to from three to five years in the same institution.

Juvenile Judge H. F. Jones sentenced Harry Zelevski, 17, and Arthur Le May, 15, to the State Industrial School for Boys at Waukesha until they are 21, and granted probation to three others.

Six of the youths had been held several days and Adams, authorities said, was picked up Wednesday night shortly before he had planned a jail delivery to free his confederates. Much of the loot was recovered at the Belongia home, authorities said.

OFFICIALS INVITED TO RELIEF CONFERENCE

An invitation for Appleton city officials to attend the regional conference on the administration of public and private relief in the present unemployment emergency was received Friday by Mayor John Goodland, Jr. The meeting will be held on Jan. 14 at Neenah. The morning session, at 10 o'clock will be held at city hall, and the afternoon meeting, starting with a luncheon at 12:15, will be at the Valley Inn.

IN SONG RECITAL

Miss Hazel Glose, a senior student at the Lawrence Conservatory of Music, presented a brief song recital at the convocation of Lawrence college students at the chapel Friday morning. She was accompanied at the piano by Merritt Young, Wausau.

cratic party and took much interest in politics in the village. Mr. Collar was married on Nov. 25, 1872, to Miss Anna Smith, daughter of Frederick Smith, New London. Mrs. Collar died about 14 years ago. Survivors are one daughter, Mrs. Edward Geiger, Beverly Hills, Calif.; two sons, Lucius A. Collar of Greenville, and Charles E. Collar of Milwaukee.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Baptist church, Hortonville. The Rev. L. F. Foreman will have charge.

MILK COOPERATIVE APPROVES SETUP

Membership Campaign to Be Conducted During Latter Part of Month

BY W. F. WINSEY
A meeting of the full committee of the Outagamie-co local of the Pure Milk Products' Cooperative held in the court house Thursday night, approved the tentative setup for the Appleton local, drawn at a conference of a delegation of the local committee and marketing experts of the Department of Agriculture and Markets and the College of Agriculture. The conference was held in Madison last Saturday.

It was decided at the Thursday night conference of the committee to explain the setup to the civic and business organizations of Appleton such as the bankers, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs and the Chamber of Commerce at meeting possibly on January 13. The next step will be submitting the setup to a mass meeting of milk producers who supply Appleton with milk, possibly on Saturday, January 13 in Appleton. If the setup is approved by the mass meeting, membership drive will be conducted the week following the mass meeting.

R. F. Ames, fieldman for the Pure Milk Products' Cooperative, and George Kuennig, marketing specialist, Madison, consented to explain the Appleton milk setup to the local societies on January 13 if arrangements for a meeting can be made on that date.

At the Thursday night conference, the Outagamie county committee was materially assisted by R. M. Orchard, assistant attorney general, Madison, and J. L. Edwards, field service manager, Madison, George Kuennig, marketing specialist, Madison, J. V. Nichols, manager and director, Madison, and L. V. Swan, president and director, Elkhorn.

HOME ACCIDENTS BLAMED FOR OVER 24,000 DEATHS

Automobile Fatality List Only Slightly Larger, Report Shows

Madison — A rug, a cake of soap and a kitchen ladder are instruments of destruction almost as dangerous as the automobile. Approximately 24,000 persons lost their lives during the last year through accidents occurring in their homes. The automobile fatality list was only a little larger. Statistics compiled by the Board of Health of Wisconsin show an increasing number of accidents occurring in the home. Instead of its being a place of safety, due to carelessness it is a place of danger.

"Thousands of the home accidents could be prevented," declares the bulletin of the State Medical Society issued today. "So could thousands of accidents that are less serious, but, are, nevertheless, painful and disabling."

"A weak stepladder is the cause of many accidents. A chair or a box is a dangerous substitute for a good ladder. About one-third of all home falls occur on stairs or steps.
Toy steps are especially dangerous."

"There have been accidents caused by poor lighting of stairs and halls; due to a failure to remove snow and ice promptly from doorsteps; due to the lack of a rubber mat near the bath; due to matches being within the reach of children."

"In a single year there were 74 deaths and 185 injuries in Wisconsin due to the careless use of fires and matches. Four children were burned and one was injured playing with matches. Twelve people died and 14 were seriously injured by throwing gasoline on the fires to quicken them. Twenty-eight hundred children under five years of age die in the United States each year as a result of burns that occur, for the most part, in the home.
In a single year 2,800 people were suffocated in the United States by gas, due to the leakage of gas, or poor ventilation of rooms where gas is burning."

"Bear in mind, too, that a pot may boil over and put the gas out or the wind may blow it out. Sometimes children, playing near a gas stove, will open a burner and leave it open without realizing the danger. One must be on the alert for such emergencies and must turn off the gas promptly."

"The husband and wife can become two of the greatest Evangelists for good health by protecting their home. Ventilation, sunshine, care of the gas stove, proper attention to electricity and the utmost of caution in using furnaces, matches, and other instruments about the home would cut the death rate from those causes immeasurably."

SOLOMON LEVITAN PAYS TRIBUTE TO JULIUS ROSENWALD

Madison—(P)—Solomon Levit-an, state treasurer Thursday issued the following tribute to Julius Rosenwald, Chicago philan-thrope, who died yesterday.

"I first became acquainted with Julius Rosenwald about 45 years ago when he was with the firm of Rosenwald and Well and his friendship has been an inspiration and help to me through all the years. He always had a good word and cheer for everybody.
His great love for mankind was expressed in many charitable activities. He gave alike to all in need without regard to race or religion. Whatever would help to lift the burden of mankind gained his interest and support whatever it was along educational, commercial or humanitarian lines.
Men like Julius Rosenwald never die—their works live after them.
The whole world mourns the loss of the great American citizen."

GOVERNOR WILL TALK TO LEGION

Mid-winter Conference Is Scheduled for Jan. 9 to 12 at Madison

Madison—(P)—With Governor
Philip LaFollette as the principal speaker, the Wisconsin department of the American Legion has chosen unemployment, child welfare, boy scout work and community service as its major topics for discussion at its mid-winter conference here Jan.
9-12.

Opening the four-day convention, an executive conference will be held Saturday, Jan. 8. This will be followed by a parade and banquet by the Forty et Eight, legion funnack-ers.

In addition to social activities,
Prof. W. C. Troutman, of the University of Wisconsin department of speech, will address the conference at a noon luncheon Sunday.

On Monday, a day devoted to round table discussions and business meetings, the convention will hear addresses by Mayor Albert Schmiedeman of Madison; Mrs. D. F. Nauth, department president of the women's auxiliary; Mrs. Ralph C.
Risch, national vice chairman of the auxiliary; Frank Greeny, department children's code committeeman;
H. L. Plummer, national vice commander; Mrs. C. F. Snover, national vice president of the auxiliary; Dr.
Otho Fiedler, president, Wisconsin
State Medical society; Bill Lyons, chief de Chemin de Fer, 40 and 8;
Major Tom Fox of the University of Wisconsin; and O. F. Youngdahl, commander, department of Minnesota.

Besides Gov. LaFollette, speakers at the banquet Monday evening include Dr. C. A. Dawson, department commander; Henry L. Stevens, national commander; and Captain Irving O'Hay.
The final day will be devoted to discussion of business subjects.

LET US KEEP ON THE TRACK
In his recent address to the legislature, Governor LaFollette spoke of a corporation in Wisconsin, admittedly the company publishing the Milwaukee Journal, as violently opposing his policies and stated that its three owners "paid only $1,254.90 in state income taxes."
The amount of taxes above mentioned is true but the impression the governor leaves is a very deceptive one.
In order to present all the facts the governor should have said that the publishing corporation itself paid, in round figures, to the state of Wisconsin $115,000 in income taxes and to the federal government over $200,000.
The question of the alleged double taxation of stockholders in a corporation was presented to the legislature by the governor's relief plans, and is one that is often considerably misunderstood. The issues involved will be best comprehended when this example is considered:
Any number of men may form a partnership in Wisconsin to carry on a business or industry. That partnership as such pays no income taxes whatsoever, either to the federal government or the state, but the profits it may make are taxed as the income of the individuals who own it. It will be seen therefore that such profits pay just one income tax.
Yet if these same men formed a corporation instead of a partnership, both the national and the state governments compel that corporation to pay an income tax. And our law at the present time provides that, the corporation having paid such an income tax, the profits it may distribute to its stockholders shall not, for that year, be subject to a further tax.
The governor's effort is to acquire the corporation to continue to pay its income tax and to again tax the profits it has made as soon as they are distributed to the stockholders. While this will appear to many as double taxation with a vengeance, we adhere to the opinion, nevertheless, that there is a just reason to treat corporations and partnerships in a different manner.
A corporation is the best and most useful vehicle known for the carrying on of business. A partnership is a clumsy affair. As soon as one partner dies the partnership must be wound up. If a stockholder dies his stock merely goes to his heirs but the corporation continues on indefinitely. With the exception of banking corporations where there is a double liability, stockholders of a corporation have their liability limited to the amount of stock they buy.
There can be no corporation without the state's consent, and for every privilege granted an obligation arises. Some years ago the Supreme Court of the United States, by the close vote of five to four, Mr. Justice Holmes writing the opinion, came to the conclusion that there was a sufficient legal difference in fact so that corporations might be treated differently in the respect mentioned and actually subjected to double taxation, although, of course, the court did not, because it was none of its business, pass upon the fairness or justice of such a procedure.
How far such a practice should go is quite another question. Like everything else that goes to extremes it might thus defeat its own ends. If corporations are to be merely "soaked" because they are corporations they may dissolve and go back to partnership form.
Yet a statement of the situation is enough to indicate that legislators who oppose this double taxation may be impelled by the sincerest of motives.

ROSENWALD
Julius Rosenwald will be remembered by many as a man who followed a high moral tone in business and, because of his alert ingenuity, made a great many millions.
He probably would prefer to be remembered as a man who gave most of those millions away, and did it effectively and intelligently.
Mr. Rosenwald did the country even a greater service than evidenced by his generosity, that of making a careful study of the matter of philanthropies and in writing a long but clear treatise upon the principles that should guide.
Rosenwald fought hard against perpetuities, or long drawn out gifts. He showed by an array of actual examples, some of which he dug out from many centuries past, that the attempt to run earthly things from the grave is one of the greatest possible blunders.
Based upon the experiences of the past and the known uncertainties of the future he formulated the principle that no money should be given excepting upon the conditions that it be spent within a relatively short time. He reasoned that if we took care of our generation and the men of means provided liberally, accomplishing the two-fold object of doing good to others and preventing the stagnation of great funds, the next generation would be more able to do likewise. He showed how the change in situations makes impossible excepting in a ludicrous manner some of the fine bequests of a perpetual nature that looked sane when originated.
Since the publication of the Rosenwald article the amount of long drawn out bequests or efforts to create benefits in perpetuity have dropped to a minimum. There has been obedience to Rosenwald's principle of compelling the disbursement of the funds in from ten to twenty-five years.
REPARATION SIDELIGHTS.
The reparation conference to be held at Lausanne beginning January 18 arouses hope that France may recognize the futility of attempting to enforce the Young Plan.
The recent preliminary talks of France and Great Britain indicate that a three year moratorium on conditional payments will be suggested, but while this will give temporary relief, the plan will not satisfy Germany. In fact, she may be expected to fight against it vigorously.
German political circles want no such settlement and the Reich defiantly maintains its position that reparations are at the base of Germany's and the world's economic difficulties. The people feel that a moratorium will leave the reparation system intact and impart no stimulus to business which is now so vitally important.
The Young Plan advisory committee to establish Germany's capacity to pay reports the German problem "as largely responsible for the growing financial paralysis of the world," thus giving encouragement to German propaganda for the complete elimination of all future reparation payments.
The German people have become enraged at reparations, which attitude is finding definite and even militant expression in the growing strength of the Hitler party, backed by powerful industrialists and bankers.
In the coming German presidential election, it is possible that Hitler and Bruening may make the combination after Hindenburg. Compliments are not being paid between these two factions but insults have ceased. Chancellor Bruening is one of the few Germans in high political office who has the confidence of France. If he is retained in the government, he may be the necessary element to hold in equitable balance the whole reparation problem, its discussion and final settlement.
Certainly a balance wheel is needed and that of gyroscopic qualities. Should the German ship of state under the new regime roll too far to leeward in escaping the unconditional as well as the conditional payments, she may take aboard a wave of French soldiers that will flood the Rhineland.
According to estimates of experts, 15,000,000 tons of coal could be saved in the United States every year by the elimination of hard water from locomotive boilers, this type of water being harder to heat than soft water.

PHARAOH'S DREAM
Once Pharaoh dreamed of seven kine beside a river bank,
And pleasing was the sight of them as from the stream they drank.
Flatfished and favoured well were they, but as the king stood by Seven lean and undernourished kine he noticed drawing nigh.
Thought he, the strong will surely turn and drive the weak away.
Those lusty kine will never let such starving cattle stay,
But as he watched the flatfished cows were eaten, one by one,
By those seven lean, ill-favoured kine, until the last was gone.
Again the mighty Pharaoh dreamed of seven . . .
We know that Joseph came at last and said:
"Oh, mighty king
The years of famine swallow up what years of plenty bring."
And as it was in Pharaoh's time, five thousand years away,
We find the economic law is still the same today.

CONSERVATION OF EYESIGHT
When the mail to this column is very heavy the disposal of the paper after we have finished with the letters becomes a problem. Ordinarily the automatic chucker carries everything straight down to the automatic incinerator, but if we force the thing too hard the works become choked and then we have a time clearing for action. At that, we'd never have any quantities of propaganda coming from all sorts of commercial institutions. You know nowadays a firm can't sell soap for its value as a cleaning agent or cheese for its food value; no, they have to get into an "institute" or something and issue regular bulletins to the press, telling of the amazing effects soap and cheese have on health if you use the right brands. Well, when the works here get all stopped up with such stuff I feel mad. From the private observations editors have made about this racket, I shouldn't wonder of a fellow might not publish a terrible denunciation of soap or cheese some day.
In the past year or two I have been receiving tremendous bundles of propaganda from organizations concerned with blindness and the conservation of eyesight, and while I strive to keep in touch with any actual developments of interest to readers I have found all this stuff impossible. It merely goes to burden the chucker.
But the other day some reader sent me a copy of "The News Letter on Sight Conservation," and this paper, in the regular magazine form, with fairly brief abstracts of recent scientific work dealing with eyesight, and WITHOUT the tiresome "Released for immediate publication" which most of this incinerator fuel carries, I am tempted to hold onto the little magazine and glance it thru. I doing so I find this: Stopping Said to Cause Eye Trouble.—According to a report . . .
And then they heard a gruff voice say, "Oh, no you won't, lads. Not today. I am not going to hurt you, but I want you to stay here. You see, I'm fond of little boys, if they don't make a lot of noise. If you lads will behave yourselves there's not a thing to fear."
"All right, then, kindly let us out," the giant heard one "Tiny" shout. "We'd like to hop down on the ground and get some nice fresh air. We cannot swing the door outside, although we all have tried and tried. Won't you please open up the latch so we can come outside?"
Another added, "We'll be good, just like all little fellows should. Gee, when you got a look at us, you'll have to laugh, no doubt. While we were sailing through the sky, a queer thing happened, way up high. We all began to shrink until we almost faded out."
The rocket door then opened wide. "Hello there, friends," the giant cried. "Don't worry 'bout your being small. I'll make you big some day." The lads were happy out to the ground, all pleased that they were safe and sound. "Well, here we are," cried Scotty. "Will you join us in our play?"

O H, my, we're doomed!" wee Duncy cried. "I never thought the rocket ride would lead us to a giant's hand. What are we going to do? I must admit I'm very scared. This is the worst that we have feared. No telling what will happen ere this strange adventure's through."
"Oh, please hush up," snapped Scotty. "We may very shortly be set free. The great big giant's smiling. Maybe he's a kind old man. You always fear a lot of things that in the end fade never brings. If Mr. Giant lets us out, we'll run off it we can."
And then they heard a gruff voice say, "Oh, no you won't, lads. Not today. I am not going to hurt you, but I want you to stay here. You see, I'm fond of little boys, if they don't make a lot of noise. If you lads will behave yourselves there's not a thing to fear."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Salicylic Acid Not Good Food
Please tell me if acid salicylic used to preserve cider in the proportion of two ounces to the 50 gallon barrel would be injurious in any way. I have some kidney trouble. (T. S. F.)
Answer—That amounts to about 20 grains to the gallon. Or say 22 grains to the pint. I should not advise the ingestion of that much salicylic acid, especially if there is any kidney disease.
Concrete Floor
In the factory where I work we have to stand on concrete floors all day. At night my legs are all tired out. This men have asked for wooden floors but the company thinks we can get along without them. . . . (N. S.)
Answer—It is not more injurious to the feet or the health to stand on concrete or composition or tile floors than it is to stand on wood floors. If your work is standing, why not use a felt or coco mat to stand on? Perhaps you have pronounced or weak feet, from improper shoes.

A Bystander In Washington
By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington — One of the first things new members of congress find out when they come to Washington is the secret of having their remarks extended in the Congressional Record.
It is one of the most valuable lessons they learn. More than one political life has been prolonged through this privilege. All of them — old members as well as new — regard it as one of their most valuable assets.
Many speeches calculated to produce votes back home would die a-borning were it not possible for a senator or representative to "revise and extend."
Once printed in the Record it becomes official, may be re-printed and distributed at will under the congressman's frank. Mailed out to the voters, such material is convincing if silent evidence that "Congressman Sonando" is on the job and working hard.
Big Year Ahead
Judging from the manner in which "revising and extending" was practiced the first few days of the present session, a banner year for this business is in prospect.
Next year is campaign year. These chaps elected in November, 1930 have been drawing a salary for a long time without having much opportunity to make a showing. Of course, it hasn't been their fault. Congress has not been in session.
However, it is necessary for the folks back home to be given something to "chew on" if the member expects them to return him next year. So they've gotten busy.
Radio talks, speeches made before various organizations and the like are now being put in the Record for distribution. Many of these speeches were made before Congress convened, but then they are valuable and can be made to serve a purpose.
Thus one congressman gets permission to insert a radio speech he made back home on "Our Country's Navy."
Some Rejected
Another brings forth his "Sleeping Money—Postal Savings to the Rescue." Still another seemingly goes a bit afield with his contribution, a speech delivered before a religious gathering—"The Spirit of the Master—A Layman's Impression of Jesus of Nazareth."
These are just a few, but are typical.
Of course, not everything offered gets by. In both house and senate there are watchdogs of the Record who make it a business to head some of the brethren off. Underhill of Massachusetts attends to it in the house. Smoot of Utah watches it in the senate.
But most of 'em get what they want regardless.

Seen And Heard In New York
BY WILLIAM GAINES
New York — Jack Black, who writes and lectures about why he believes criminals can't win, has been at odd times — admittedly — a hobo, narcotic addict, burglar and stick-up man. He squared himself with society in jail and prison.
An orphan, Black once longed for fine clothes. His fond desire was to have a gray suit, a gray-hat, a flashy tie, gloves and a cane. These would go well with a stubby mustache, he thought.
When he grew into manhood and collected enough money by devious means to purchase such a wardrobe, a pal cautioned him:
"If you dress that way, kid, we part. Where did you get that notion? What you want is clothes that won't hold the eye for a second. Too many guys are picked up by the bulls through some freak of dress. Don't wear neckties that tag you."
The man who gave Jack Black that advice was Sanctimonious Slim, a shrewd, slick fellow, later hanged in Australia for murder.
Social welfare organizations lend a ready ear to Black these days. And he can wear whatever strikes his fancy.
Ask Them Another
Two gentlemen of my acquaintance had made an evening of it. One escorted the other to Grand Central station, to make sure he caught his train to Scarsdale.
There was a brief wait before train time. The more playful one happened to mention that he had read somewhere how these men at the information desks would answer most any sort of question, whether it pertained to railroading or no.
Of course he was mistaken, but in his blind way he insisted upon finding out for himself. He went over to a booth and said to one of the public informants:
"Say, I'm lookin' for a penguin. Can you tell me where I can see one?"
The clerk looked over his glasses quickly, then smiled:
"Why, as I recall it, they had one at the aquarium. Which was fact, though. Then the fellow added with good humor, 'But I wouldn't be surprised, sir, if you could see one most any place.'"
"Didn't I tell you?" the inquirer boasted, as his companion steered him to the track gate.
Down To Earth
Lucille Wall tells how her ambitions to be a great actress or a great musician faded, why she became a popular artist.
She wanted to play Shakespearean roles. Learning that Jane Cowl was rehearsing a repertoire, she gained permission to watch. This was just after Miss Wall was graduated by a dramatic school.
"When I saw Miss Cowl, I felt that here must be perfection. I knew that I could never match it, and somehow I didn't want to try."
When she was studying to be a pianist, she wanted to excel in playing Bach's compositions. Her parents took her to her father's and, she says, "his mastery convinced me that I should never try to emulate him."
Paul Leysaac, the actor, was decorated by King Christian X of Denmark for his translations of Hans Christian Andersen's stories into French and English.

Committees Of Society Are Named

STANDING committees for 1932 were appointed by the president at the meeting of the Ladies Aid and Missionary society of First English Lutheran church Thursday afternoon at Castle hall. The cradle roll committee includes Mrs. H. Junge, Mrs. H. Heins, Mrs. H. Ballard, Mrs. V. De Long, Mrs. E. Sager and Miss Mabel Kransusch. The altar committee consists of Mrs. W. Koerner, Mrs. A. Kransusch, Mrs. H. Petake and Mrs. D. Hob. and the sick committee is composed of Mrs. E. Schabo, Mrs. G. Solie, Mrs. W. Block and Mrs. R. Krasbe. It was decided that the Missionary and social meetings in February, May, September and December will be held on the first Thursday evening of those months.

Several of the members volunteered to help after clothing for the Appleton Relief Welfare council storehouse. Thirty-eight persons were present.

New officers of the Missionary society of Trinity English Lutheran church took their places for the first time at the meeting Thursday afternoon in the sub auditorium of the church. Standing committees for the year were appointed and announcement was made of the World Day of Prayer which will be held Feb. 12. Mrs. Albert Roehl and Mrs. Walter Quandt will represent Trinity English Lutheran church on the committee in charge of the event. A supper will be served from 5 to 7 o'clock Jan. 16 at the church. Mrs. Herman Kottke will be in charge of the kitchen, and Mrs. J. Homblette will be chairman of the dining room. One new member, Mrs. Henry Walter, was taken into the society. Twenty-four members and two visitors were present. A social hour followed business meeting.

Mrs. A. Limpert and Mrs. C. Damsheuer will be the delegates at the Women's Union of St. John church to the World Day of Prayer to be held Feb. 12, according to plans made at the meeting of the Union Thursday afternoon in the church basement. Announcement was made of a birthday party which will be held Feb. 11, and of the sewing circle meeting to take place Jan. 21, at the home of Mrs. H. Eardnager, 1118 W. Oklahoma-st. Mrs. Frank Breuer will be assistant hostess to the circle. Games were played at the party which followed the meeting. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. M. Krautsch, Mrs. E. Daelke, Mrs. H. Schade and Mrs. A. Krueger. Thirty-two members were present.

The annual meeting of St. Mary church Holy Name society will be held after 7:30 mass Sunday morning, according to Joseph P. Kerrigan, president, Rev. Anselm Keefe of St. Norbert college will be the principal speaker. Breakfast and election of officers for the ensuing year will take place. Present officers are Joseph P. Kerrigan, president; William Ferron, vice president; Lester Ballet, secretary; Donald Joyce, treasurer; and William O'Neil, marshal. The meeting will be held at Columbia hall.

Mrs. Frank Saiberlich led the devotion, which was in the form of a special prayer service, at the meeting of Women's Christian Temperance Union Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Ida Hopkins, 820 E. North-st. The prayer service was for temperance and world peace, prohibition in the United States, and the coming election. Fourteen members were present. The next meeting will be in two weeks. All officers of the Altar Guild of All Saints Episcopal church were re-elected at the annual meeting Thursday night at the home of Mrs. C. E. Burgess, 514 N. Durkee-st. They are Mrs. H. F. Henke, president; Miss Maud Harwood, vice president; and Miss Laura Hehne, secretary and treasurer. A social hour took place after the business session. The next meeting will be the first Monday in February.

The Light Brigade of Trinity English Lutheran church will resume its weekly meetings after the holiday recess at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the church. The regular devotion will take place and the members will continue with their planned work.

Tentative plans for a jubilee celebration to be held Feb. 28 were made at the meeting of the Ladies Aid society of St. Paul Lutheran church Thursday afternoon at the school hall. A social hour followed the meeting.

Christian Endeavor society of Memorial Presbyterian church will resume its devotional meetings at 6:30 Sunday night at the church. Wayne Stevenson will be the leader.

Feelings Of Child Should Be Trained

BY ANGELO PATRI
"I've called about my daughter Mollie. She's in Miss Singer's class. 'Yes, I know Mollie. What is it you are troubled about?'"

"I wish you'd speak to Miss Singer and tell her she must make the children stop calling Mollie names. 'Calling Mollie names? Why Mollie is in the first year of High School. Only babies call names. What?'"

"You don't understand. Mollie is very sensitive. She is a very nervous child and always wants to be perfect. She never makes a mistake if she does. Cries all night. Well, this morning she missed a question in history. She said something wrong and the children all laughed at her and so did the teacher. I don't think the teacher ought to laugh at a child's mistakes, especially such a sensitive child as Mollie."

"What was the mistake, do you know?"
"She was asked about William Penn and she didn't understand the question and she said he was a Cavalier and the teacher said, 'You mean a Quaker' and she said 'Yes, a Quaker Cavalier' and they all laughed. Now Mollie is very sensitive and she says she won't go back to that class until the teacher apologizes and I think she's right. I want Miss Singer to apologize to my daughter for laughing at her."

"That wouldn't help your daughter the least bit. It would make her worse. The children and the teacher didn't laugh at her mistake. They laughed at her mental attitude. She didn't know her lesson but she was bound to be right. Instead of saying I don't know, she added Quaker to Cavalier and that was too much. Mollie is thinking so much about herself, so much about what people think, that she hasn't time to attend to her real business. What we have to do is to find a way to teach her that her thinking is important. Not what other people think. What she thinks."

"If Mollie misses a spelling word she cries. If she is last on a line, she cries. If she isn't appointed chairman of a group she weeps. She pities herself so much that she is forgetting how to laugh. Teach her to laugh at herself and the rest of the class won't have a chance to laugh at her."

It is a mistake to encourage children to exaggerate their feelings. More unhappy lives have been brought about by self pity, self love than we can count. Life is never sterilized. It is never smooth. It is never secure. It is an adventure and the children should be sent out in that attitude. 'Take the day as it comes. Make the most of it. Do your

Make Plans To Install New Leaders

ARRANGEMENTS for installation of officers to take place Jan. 21 were made at a meeting of the social committee of Christian Endeavor society of First Reformed church Thursday night at the church. The meeting preceded the prayer meeting at the church. The committee in charge includes Miss Helen Meyer, chairman; Norbert Franz and Carleton Werner.

An open card party followed the meeting, prizes at bridge being won by Mrs. Tony Schweske and Mrs. Dora Hager, at schafkopf by Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald, Kaukauna, and Mrs. Frank Chandler, and at dice by Mrs. Pauline Gerou. A lunch was served. Mrs. Fannie Perrine was chairman of the party.

The Golden Jubilee membership campaign which will start soon, was discussed at the meeting of Father Fitzmaurice council, Knights of Columbus, Thursday night at Catholic home. The Past Grand Knights' meeting was postponed until a later date, because of the large number of meetings Thursday night.

Plans were made for a card party and dance to be held next Thursday for Knights and their ladies.

A report on the Pythian New Year's frolic was given by Clarence Zehe at the meeting of Knights of Pythias Thursday night at Castle hall. Announcement was made of a card party to be given by Knights and Pythias Sisters Saturday night at the hall. Volley ball was played after the meeting.

Appleton Apostolate held a meeting Wednesday night at Catholic home. Tentative plans were made for a card party to be held some time before Lent, and for a food sale during Lent. No dates have been set.

The Happy Eight club met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. John McGinnis, 1412 N. Durkee-st. Mrs. Carl Mauthe and Mrs. Wenzel Sommer won the prizes at bridge. The next meeting will be in two weeks with Mrs. Mauthe at her home in Marion.

Miss Lulu Duvel, N. Appleton-st., entertained the T. N. T. bridge club Thursday evening at her home. Prizes were won by Miss Virginia Westphal and Miss Dorothy Lelinger. The club will meet next Thursday with Miss Evelyn Huss, Springfield.

Miss Jennie Boehler, 1000 N. Richmond-st., entertained the Ft-WI club Thursday night at her home. Cards were played and prizes were won by Miss Martha Boehler and Miss Josephine Helein. The club will meet Jan. 31 with Miss Ruth Ann Timmers, 729 N. State-st.

Delta Gamma Alumnae association will meet at 6:30 Monday night at the home of Mrs. George Wood, 613 N. Bateman-st. A supper will be served and the business meeting will follow.

best and squeeze just as much fun out of the process as you can. Don't stop to look at yourself or you will be sorry. Nobody ever got a real glimpse of himself yet without feeling pretty bad about it. Just keep looking ahead, pushing ahead, going ahead and forget yourself.

This sensitivity is not the real article. It is a screen for human weakness. When you see it in a child search for the cause and do your best to put strength in the place of weakness and the tears, self pity and self love will vanish in ripples of laughter.

PARTIES

Arrangements for either a skating or sleighing party to be held next Wednesday, if the weather permits, were made at a meeting of the social committee of Christian Endeavor society of First Reformed church Thursday night at the church. The meeting preceded the prayer meeting at the church. The committee in charge includes Miss Helen Meyer, chairman; Norbert Franz and Carleton Werner.

Ladies Aid society of St. Joseph church held a card party Thursday afternoon at the parish hall, with 13 tables in play. Prizes at schafkopf were awarded to Mrs. Dora Welhouse and Louis Vanderlois, and at plumpack to Mrs. Katherine Buntz. Mrs. Louise Lang was in charge. There will be another party next Thursday.

A benefit card party will be given by the Ladies Aid society of St. Joseph church at 8 o'clock Sunday night at the parish hall. The committee in charge of arrangements includes Mrs. Charles Feuerstein, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Poetzl, Mrs. Fred Hoffman, Mrs. Walter Steenis, Mrs. Wenzel Neugebauer, Mrs. John Thelsen and Mrs. Louise Lang.

Mrs. John DuVal, 414 E. Summer-st., entertained at dinner and bridge Wednesday evening at her home in honor of her birthday anniversary. Covers were laid for 14 persons. Prizes at bridge were won by George Zitelman, Mrs. Harlow Wickert, and Mrs. Max Krautsch.

Mrs. Russell Jabas, 1000 N. Richmond-st., entertained a group of friends Thursday evening at her home in honor of her birthday anniversary. Bridge was played and prizes were won by Mrs. Willard Hackleman and Mrs. Floyd Laabs. Two tables were in play.

A dancing party will be given by Odd Fellows and Rebekahs Saturday night at Odd Fellow hall. The party is for members of both organizations and their friends.

Rheumatism Goes Swollen Joints Vanish

Says New Medicine Must Free Your Muscle and Joints in Less Than a Week or Money-Back

EASES PAIN FIRST DAY

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, sore muscles, stiff inflamed joints, it's because your system is full of the dangerous rheumatic poisons that every year makes thousands helpless. What you need is RU-MA, and need it right now. RU-MA acts on the blood, kidneys and liver, and helps drive the dangerous rheumatic poisons from the system through the natural channels of elimination—it eases pain the first day or nothing to pay.

An internal medicine should be used to free the joints and muscles of crippling rheumatic stiffness, soreness and torturing pain. That's why RU-MA succeeds while external medicines and pain deadening drugs give only temporary relief.

Schlitz Bros. says no matter what kind of rheumatism you have, or how long you have suffered, try RU-MA—it must stop your rheumatic agony or you get your money back. Adv.

No Native New Yorkers In Picture About New York

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press
Hollywood—(CPA)—They have a grand New York set for a nifty New York story out at Paramount and the atmosphere is just as Manhattan as you please but they have not a single native New Yorker in the entire company. Nossir, amid the celluloid skyscrapers and the celluloid situations arranged for this story about Gotham they have natives of 19 other states and one other country but not an actor, writer or even an electrician who first saw the light of day in Mayor Walker's village.

Frederic March was born in Racine, Wis. Kay Francis had Oklahoma City for her birthplace. Stuart Erwin is from Squaw Valley, Cal. Juliette Compton made her world debut in Columbus, Ga. George Barbier hails from Philadelphia, Lucien Littlefield from San Antonio, Texas, and Earle Foxe from Oxford, Ohio. Lothar Mendes, another member of the acting group is from Berlin, Germany.

Two writers created the plot which has to do with blackmail, a New York indoor sport, but neither of the authors is entered on any birth register of the Empire state. Grover Jones was born in Rosedale, Indiana, and William Slavens McNutt in Urbana, Illinois.

The fact that all these people have been to New York and most of them have lived there for considerable periods of time doesn't alter the further fact that there isn't a native son or daughter in the crowd. When this appalling realization dawned upon the company they combed the set for somebody who had really been born within the limits of New York City, because it was felt that New York wouldn't believe a picture of any kind could be made without one New Yorker in it.

And what do you think was the nearest they came to a Manhattan-ite? "Sure," admitted an electrician "I'm a native New Yorker."

Born right in New York City? The assembled company demanded eagerly.

"Right in New York City," answered the electrician, "practically."

But where? they persisted.

"Well," the electrician hedged, "not right in the borough of Manhattan. But you just take the ferry-boat."

Ah! sighed the assembled company. To Staten Island, eh?

"Not exactly," the electrician answered, "but just across the river to Hoboken, New Jersey."

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"Is somebody keeping a rendezvous with someone she's afraid to meet openly?" Jack asked, his eyes straying beyond Sue to the figure in a black coat with a scarf tossed over her head. "Dangerous business. Somebody always sees. And sees more than really happens too. She ought to be warned. But I don't like people who go around sounding warnings."

"The waiting car probably had something to do with her," Sue answered. She was growing a little sleepy. But once in bed she couldn't sleep. The wind was growing colder. A stray snowflake or two came drifting by. The curtains flapped in the breeze.

Jack went to sleep very quickly. But it seemed to Sue that she could hear the haunting strains of the music drifting from Corrinne and Harry's. Missing a party meant nothing, there were more parties in the world than anyone wanted to go to anyway. But to be coolly ignored by Corrinne was different.

"When she needs me she'll send for me," Sue told herself. "But not until then, I suppose. I'm just useful to her."

She drifted off to sleep at last and had a nightmare which she thought that her mother was reproving her because of something she had done and consoling Corrinne. She tried and tried to explain but no one would listen. She thought she removed her dress she was wearing and tossed it at Corrinne, telling her to take it back.

"What's the matter, Sue?" Jack's voice awakened her.

Then she realized that she had thrown the blankets off, as she dreamed of the dress. "Going in for fresh air, pure and simple!" Jack pulled the covering up again and gathered Sue close.

"I'm having bad dreams," she whispered. "They aren't important, though."

But she remembered the dream the next afternoon. She had taken Jack's car and gone out to their house to supervise the painting of the furniture. She left about five o'clock and stopped at her own home. From the street she could see the firelight dancing on the hearth. It looked cheerful and friendly.

Her father called to her from the street, and she waited for him to catch up with her. He looked calmer, more rested, she noted. He had a position in the Becker factories now... one with little to do, and he had taken a stronger lease on life.

They went into the house, laughing together.

Corrinne was curled up on theavenport before the fire. Her dress was a gay green and the firelight brought out the lights of her dark hair. Sarah sat just beyond, slim hands, crossed around her knees, as she leaned toward the blaze. She looked up and smiled as Sue entered. Mrs. Merryman smiled, too, but the smile was worried.

Corrinne had been talking. Sue knew. She had heard her voice as she and her father entered. It had paused too suddenly.

"No, I won't take off my coat. I can't stay," Sue said. "I just dropped in for a minute."

"Sue," Mrs. Merryman stopped, groping for words. "Don't you think you and Jack should move back to Corrinne's? She feels badly at the way you walked out on her."

Sue glanced at Corrinne. Her sister was staring into the fire.

"It was so crowded. Besides, it's just for one more night." She hunted for words. Corrinne interrupted.

One-Piece Dress

BY ANNEBELLE WORTHINGTON

A cute dress is this little one-piece affair for that important girl of the family of 2, 4 or 6 years.

It's a model to that will provide a basis for many variations.

For instance, there's the original model in navy blue wool crepe with vivid red yoke and cuffs and tiny gold button trim.

Then too, Jane must have a frock of wool challis print. This one is fetching in brown and yellow coloring with plain yellow contrasting and brown bindings and buttons with yoke and cuffs.

For real honest-to-goodness hardy wear, there's gingham, poplins, pique and percales.

Wool jersey and wool challis are also suitable.

Style No. 3191 takes but 1 1/2 yards of 35-inch contrasting for the 4-year size.

Don't envy the woman who dresses well and keeps her children well-dressed. Just send for your copy of our Winter Fashion Magazine.

Do Not Make Demands

ANXIOUS BLUE EYES: The quarrel is your fault. There is no reason why this chap shouldn't go out with other girls. If you started war on those grounds, you're all wrong and he's all right. You can't demand an explanation or an apology since you're not engaged to the lad, and until you are, both of you must learn to be a little bit broad-minded about each others' friends.

You've started a lot of trouble for no reason at all, so you can't expect too much sympathy. Be a sensible girl and admit that you haven't any right to crab if he wants to see something other than Anxious Blue Eyes once in a while. You'll keep him a great deal longer as a friend if you make fewer demands on him.

"SHAKE A LEG" TO LIMBER UP YOUR MUSCLES

BY ALICIA HART

The old slang phrase, "Shake a leg," is an excellent guide to exercise to limber you up.

You must shake your feet first, however. Begin with your toes, standing toes in, leaning more on the outside of your feet than the inside, and scrunch your toes about, trying to to exercise every one.

If you imagine that you are a cat, stand on one foot and raise the other slightly and begin wriggling the whole foot, from the ankle. Turn it around in a circle if you can. At least you can raise it up and push it back and bend it part way to first one side, then the other.

Now try relaxing the ankle thoroughly, and still standing like a stork on one foot, shake the other foot by moving the knee on that side. Kick out from the knee and then let the leg fall back. This will move you about a bit until you get used to balancing on one foot. But it is excellent for your whole muscular system.

When you have thoroughly limbered up one leg to the knee, change feet and go through all the motions on the other side. Do both sides a couple of times and see if your feet do not feel much warmer and more alive. Now you need to work on your hips before your whole leg muscles feel totally relaxed.

COURTESY BY CORRESPONDENCE MAY LEAD TO UNSATISFACTORY CONCLUSION—JEALOUS SWEETHEART

Dear Miss Vane: I met a man on a trip last winter and we have corresponded regularly ever since. I know that I care for him and believe him to be all right. We are both middle-aged so ought to know our own minds. He has now written to me asking me to marry him. I feel I should know more about him from his friends and relatives. But how am I going to seek such information. Whom can I turn to?

BEWILDERED.

If you're middle-aged and quite sure that you care for this man the one best judge of him must be yourself. But you can't possibly judge anyone from a traveling flirtation and a handful of letters. You can't accept a proposal of marriage from someone you've hardly seen for more than a few days—not if you want to face the future with any sense of security at all.

Tell this ardent suitor to come on to see you, and make sure that you introduce him to your own friends and relatives. Just insist on viewing him in a different setting before you decide to be his life-partner. He may have looked more than ordinarily attractive on a holiday and you may have been influenced by countless factors which had nothing to do with his character.

Better have a good look at him in familiar settings. See how he looks when you introduce him to members of your family. See what you think of him, yourself and how he compares with other men you know. If he is still the best man in the world for you, I think you can trust your own judgment and go ahead with the wedding preparations.

L. L. L.: The answer given to L. L. had nothing to do with your problem which was answered some time later. You will have heard from me by this time. If there is anything further to be discussed, I shall be glad to help you in any way possible.

DOUBTFUL: No, you shouldn't have phoned him. You did quite right in refusing to chase after him. You see it wouldn't have been of much use. Evidently he's through with this friendship and you would have embarrassed him and caused yourself needless pain by striving to go right on with the affair as it was.

You've proved one thing to yourself now—that he doesn't care for you as you want to be cared for. Nothing could make this more evident than his cavalier treatment. No, he hasn't behaved well at all and this ought to cheer you up a bit now that you've lost him. Anyhow

BLAINE BILL SEEKS TO AID POOR INDIANS

Amendment Falls Under the Capper "Wheat Dole" Measure

BY RUBY A. BLAKE
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—"The unbearable financial burden" laid upon various Wisconsin townships in their efforts to help destitute Indians prompted Sen. John J. Blaine to introduce his amendment extending relief to Indians under the Capper wheat dole bill which provides 40,000,000 bushels of wheat for the hungry and needy.

The Blaine amendment, which was accepted and passed by the Senate with the Capper bill on Monday, extends the availability of the wheat to "any State or political subdivision thereof for use of Indians on any Indian reservation and among other Indians in distress." Letters and messages to the Senator from Wisconsin, particularly from the town of Oneida in Outagamie county, and from Ashland county and the Bad River Indian reservation told of a terrific financial load being carried by towns attempting to aid Indians who are entirely without food, clothing, and means of support. It has been a progressive and continued burden. In the last Congress, Sen. Blaine introduced a bill, on which no action was taken and which died in the Indian Affairs committee, providing $5,000 for Oneida to reimburse the town for expenses incurred in caring for indigent Oneida Indians during the winters of 1928 and 1929.

The Wisconsin Legislature last year authorized an appropriation for Indian Reservation relief, according to the Wisconsin Senator.

Upon Request
In introducing his amendment, Sen. Blaine said:
"I do so because of a request which I have received from my own State from one of the departments which has been to a large extent authorized to assist the Indians on the Indian reservations in my state. That is a state organization, a public function."

"Then there are other sections in my state which are occupied by tribes of Indians, not on reservations or in tribal relationship, but to all intents and purposes constituting a distinct organization. The government no longer has jurisdiction over them. Wherever they are located they have become a great burden upon the towns. I think it ought to be mandatory in a measure of this kind that a State or any political subdivision shall receive its fair proportion of the wheat for the purpose of taking care of and feeding Indians, who stand in quite a different relationship to our Government than do the rest of mankind in this country."

"They are wards of the Government. There is no question that there are thousands of them in distress, in the most abject poverty, and I think it ought to be emphasized in this particular measure that the States and the political subdivisions should have the opportunity to obtain the wheat for the purposes designated."

Under the Capper bill, which goes to the House from the Senate, the 40,000,000 bushels of wheat will come from the Grain Stabilization Corporation of the Federal Farm Board and will be distributed by the Red Cross and similar organizations.

POLAKOWSKI IS ONLY SOCIALIST IN STATE SENATE

Milwaukee Representative Began Career as Boot-black and Newsboy

BY JOHN E. ROHAN
(Special to Post-Crescent)

Madison — The legislative hall of Wisconsin has played the role of host to many interesting men and women who have come to Madison to make our state laws, but perhaps none is more interesting than Senator Polakowski, Socialist Senator from Milwaukee.

Born in Buffalo, N. Y., in 1881 and reared in Milwaukee, he has through the positions of newsboy, bootblack, and apprentice to an upholsterer, until at 18 he represented the upholsterers' union in the Federated Trades Council of Milwaukee. Accordingly it was not surprising that little attention was paid to him, now the owner and manager of the Custom Suit Upholstering Furniture Business, who has appeared in the Assembly Chamber 1920 as a representative of Milwaukee.

Red-headed, active, robust, wasn't long until this Milwaukee Assemblyman was known to all. However as he was elected to the Senate the following election and has remained there ever since. Senator Polakowski is a Socialist and accordingly is the sole representative of that party in the Senate since Senator Thomas M. Duncan left the party to take a position as Governor LaFollette's secretary. When Duncan left the party, Polakowski stepped up and assumed the leadership of the party in the Legislature. He is its spokesman in the senate and his platform of "Furniture Business, who he has directed toward unemployment relief.

The last session of the Legislature has served to place Senator Polakowski in a unique position. The regular session it was Polakowski who was instrumental in carrying on the filibuster which prevented the senate from taking action on such measures as relief for the unemployed, and high school aid before adjournment. Relief Bill Author. At that time Polakowski as author of a relief measure was forced to force a vote on it before the Legislature adjourned sine die. With only four hours to go before the sine die adjournment took effect Senator Polakowski got to his feet and held it by continuing to speak until 12 midnight, the end of the session. He would yield only on the condition that the relief be acted upon. The Senate refused to act on it and his filibuster brought all the pending bills to the death.

In the special session, Polakowski offered a $10,000,000 compromise bill. It was defeated. He was an important position because his vote was one of three which decided the control of the Senate. When the Fols-Nixon bill came up to vote it was noticed that Polakowski's vote was one of those who helped to defeat the bill. The reason was that Milwaukee was satisfied with the bill, and Polakowski, particularly after the feat of his own measure could not see fit to support the Governor's bill.

Although Polakowski as a Socialist is hopelessly outnumbered votes in the Senate, he does hesitate to carry his fight to the bitter end. He is not a respecter of the rights or views of political opponents and he will not hesitate to oppose any idea when it does not conform with his own views. Like a fall barometer, his rising to speak means a storm in the Senate. He is at home on a rostrum but does not get out of place on a soap box. He will speak anywhere on any subject at any time and the tone and volume of his voice is governed by the humor he happens to be in when he is speaking. It was for Polakowski's use that the speakers were invented. Senator Polakowski was candidate for Congress in 1928 from the fourth district (Milwaukee).

He was defeated, but that does not matter to Polakowski. He will again in the field this year and Milwaukeeans will have an opportunity to hear him denounce wealth, greed, etc., as he pleads for a chance to fight for the rights of the people in Congress.

You may not agree with all of his views but you will agree that a man who can take political beatings often as Polakowski takes them, still fights back is worthy of respect.

MILWAUKEE BOOKS 152 CONVENTION

Milwaukee — (P) — Milwaukee ready has booked 152 convention for 1932, meetings which will be for at least 100,000 visitors to the city. It has been announced by John Barchard, chairman of the convention bureau of the Association of Commerce. The new year, in matter of conventions, will far surpass 1931 when 249 conventions were attended by 80,000 persons, Barchard said.

Meetings of the Associated General Contractors of America, to get here Jan. 18 and of the United States Spanish War Veterans, to arrive Aug. 21, are the largest conventions arranged so far.

It is estimated that last year convention visitors spent $5,000,000 in Milwaukee and that the visitors delegates were responsible for a million of dollars worth of Milwaukee products, particularly machinery.

A COME-DOWN
London—The labor under-secretary for air in the Labor government is out of a job and can't find one. Is Fred Montague, who, after his political position, has found what the unemployment situation. He has tried everything from silk stockings to building a small order business, but as yet failed to land a position.

LENZ CUTS LEAD OF CULBERTSON TO 8,770 POINTS

Liggett Helps Him Make Gain of 5,405 Points, Biggest in Series

BY TOM O'NEIL
New York — (AP)—A sensational spurt in the home stretch by Sidney S. Lenz and Commander Winfield Liggett, Jr., left Ely Culbertson's side only 8,770 points ahead today in the contract bridge match. It will end tonight with the playing of the last six of 150 rubbers.

By the largest gain of any session by either side—5,405 points—Lenz and Liggett reduced Culbertson's plus last night to the lowest figure it has been since before Christmas. Culbertson and a new partner of one night, Howard Schenken, a New York importer, won only one of seven rubbers and netted only 60 points in that. They failed to score in two rubbers.

The rubber standing of the series became 74 for Culbertson and 70 for Lenz, the points 118,240 for Culbertson and 109,470 for Lenz.

There remained no doubt with neutral experts that Culbertson would collect his long end bets tonight, yet his opponents in the world of contract will find much room to doubt the value of the long match as a test of rival bidding systems.

Out of the match will emerge the genial commander as a great pinch hitter. For 41 rubbers in which Liggett has played in place of Oswald Jacoby, who had a dispute with Lenz, the plus of Lenz's side is 8,070 points, making it virtually as impossible for Liggett to have a deficit as for Lenz to win the match.

Mrs. Culbertson will be opposite her husband at the card table again tonight. For the 82 rubbers in which she has taken part the plus of Culbertson's side is only 155 points.

Before last night's session Culbertson praised Schenken for precision in bidding and play and said his fault, if any, was his excessive soundness. Comments on hands dictated by Culbertson during the session indicated that he believed a misplay by Schenken was responsible once for Liggett winning game and rubber and also that Schenken's bids could have been better.

Sets Aren't Costly

Lenz and Liggett had a far better run of hands and might have gained more points by a few doubles. Culbertson and Schenken took sun-dry sets, vulnerable and non-vulnerable, without undue punishment.

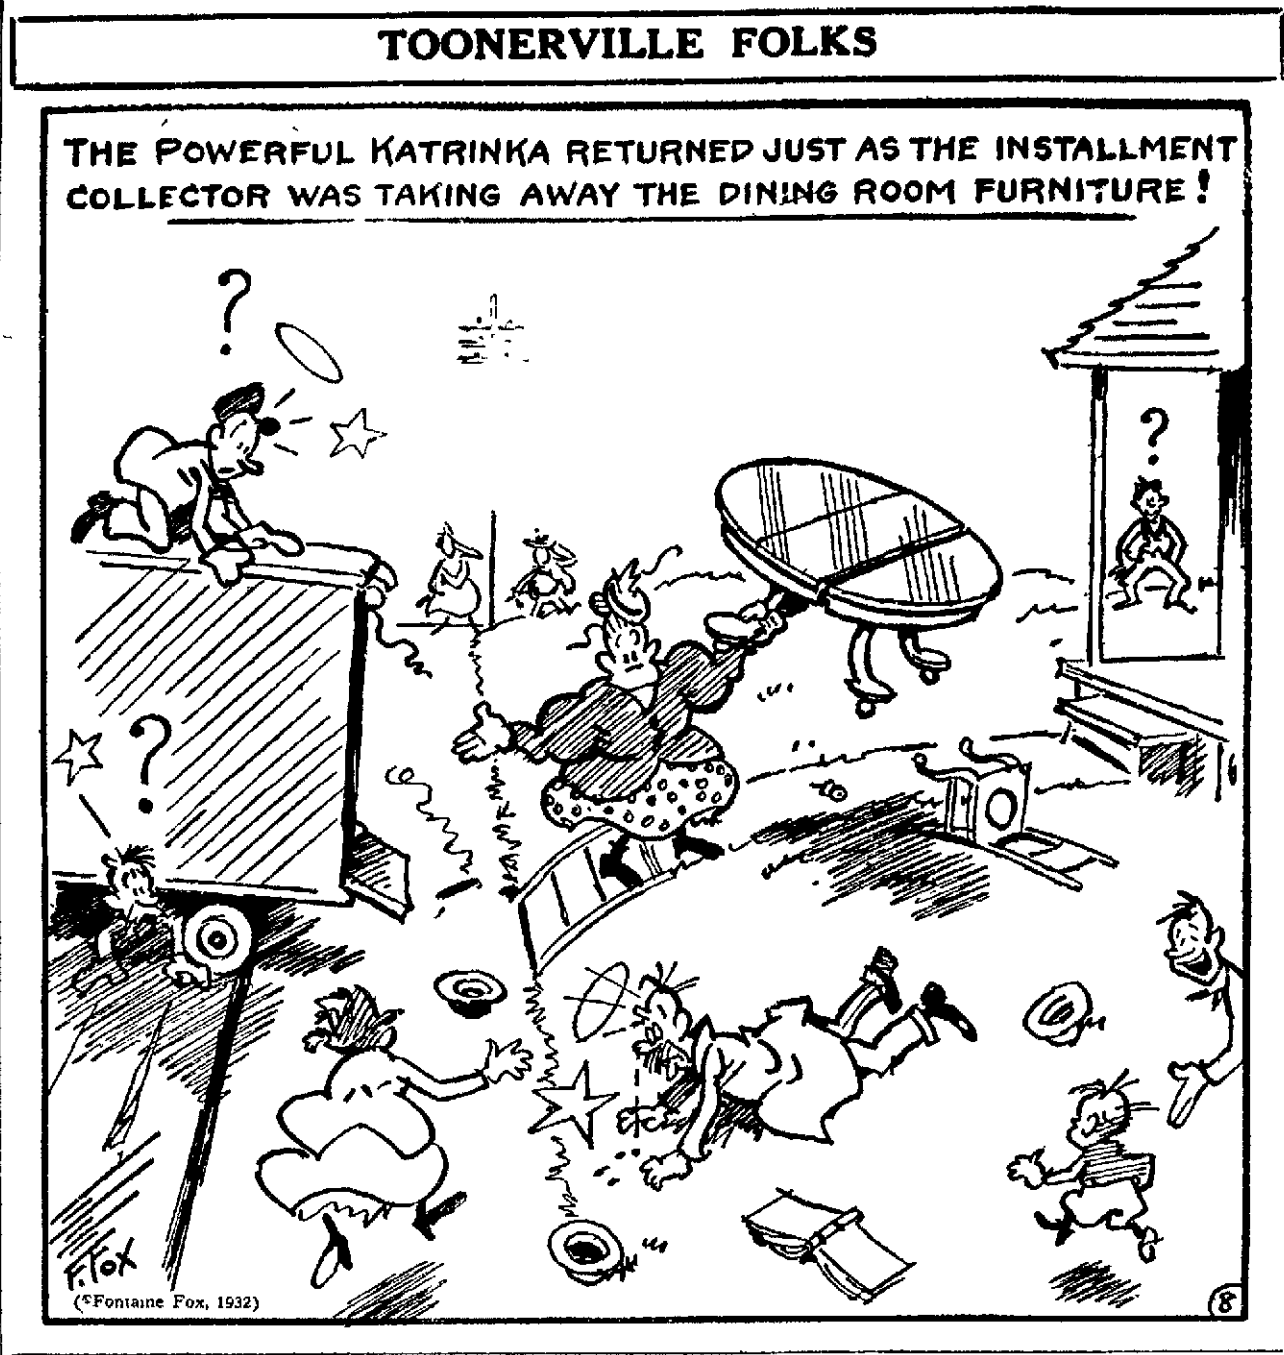

One hand showing Culbertson's dissatisfaction with Schenken was $26, on which the contract was three spades. Culbertson made four. He commented: "Game laid down. If S. should double, not overall, to give a proper inference of strength."

Culbertson-Lenz Contest Starts Fight In South

BY MORRIS WATSON
New York — (AP)—Down south they are fighting about the Ely Culbertson-Sidney Lenz bridge battle.

Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board for Bethlehem Steel, president of the Whist club and veteran whist and bridge player, brought that information with him last night when he joined a distinguished list of kibitzers at the match.

Mr. Schwab said that in a southern town he came upon two men fighting as grand a fist battle as ever was staged in the prize ring. He inquired as to the cause.

A kibitzer on the fight said: "Well, that little fellow there says Culbertson's got the best bridge system, win or lose the big match. That lanky guy says Lenz and the official system, win lose or draw. They're settlin' it, that's all."

Mr. Schwab looked on in amazement.

"As for me," drawled the kibitzer, "I prefer Vanderblit, so I ain't in the fight."

When Mr. Schwab emerged from the playing room, where he was in-

Speaking of the Weather--

by CHARLES TALMAN of the U.S. Weather Bureau

DON'T SEE YOUR DOCTOR IF YOU FIND RED SNOW—IT REALLY OCCURS IN MANY PARTS OF THE UNITED STATES AND EUROPE

The discovery of red snow is reported from time to time and is a subject of unending popular interest. Such snow occurs chiefly in the polar regions and among the snowfields of high mountains, though it has been observed occasionally at low levels.

De Saussure, in the 18th century, described its occurrence in the Alps. 1818 Sir John Ross discovered the Crimson Cliffs on the northwest coast of Greenland near Cape York. The dark red snow of the cliffs was many feet deep. Specimens of the melted snow that he brought home were found to owe their color to a minute organism.

Several other lowly species of plant and animal life impart to snow different shades of red, as well as green and yellow. Broad stretches of yellow snow were found on the ice of the Kara Sea by the Arctic expedition of the Duc d'Orleans in 1893. Blue varieties have been encountered elsewhere.

Snow colored by dust is another story. Showers of reddish dust, to which southern Europe is much subject, are blown from the Sahara, and explain some cases of red snow in the Alps.

Patches of red snow sometimes occur in the mountains of Washington and Oregon. In July, 1911, vast fields of it were found in the Yosemite National Park. The snow looked as if carmine ink had been spilled over it. Elsewhere in the same region a white snowfield was reddened, as if with blood, wherever the hoofs of the pack mules broke through the crust.

Apart from the various coloring organisms, snow is known to have extensive flora and fauna. Among its most remarkable inhabitants are the so-called "snow worms" that are sometimes strewn by the millions over the snowfields and glaciers of high mountain regions.

They dislike warm sunshine and burrow deep in the snow in the middle of the day. Tiny insects known as springtails may be seen by anybody who looks closely for them in any part of the northern United States.

TOMORROW: Farmers' almanacs and the weather.

HOLDUP NETS THREE ROBBERS ONLY $1.70

Racine — (AP)—Three robbers last night went to a great deal of trouble to get $1.70 from Christ Peterson. They held him up, Peterson said, as he was about to drive into the garage at his home. They forced him to drive to a school house on Highway 15. There they took his purse, in which there was only $1.70, and fled in an automobile which they had parked back of the school.

MURDER SUSPECT ARRESTED AFTER 17-YEAR SEARCH

Clarkeburg, W. Va.—(P)—A dramatic climax to a 17-year search for a man convicted of murder today had Louis Ross in jail.

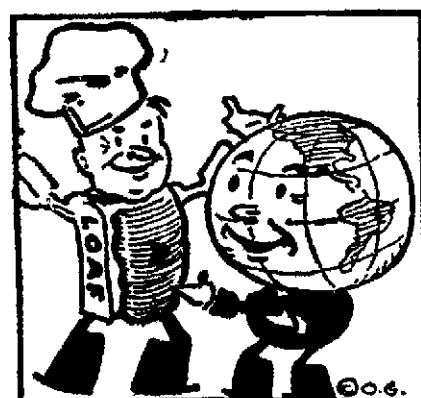

A three mile race through the dark levels of a coal mine ended in the arrest of the 43-year-old miner Wednesday by Constable Ben Smith of Coverdale, a suburb of Pittsburgh.

Ross was brought to Clarkeburg last night and Harrison-co authorities say he closely resembles Frank Pauletta, sentenced to hang in 1914 for the slaying of a fellow worker. Pauletta escaped from jail a short time before his scheduled execution.

Constable Smith had investigated for weeks. He went to the Coverdale mine yesterday to arrest Ross. They met in the semi-darkness of the pit. Informed of Smith's purpose, Ross turned and ran. For three miles he stumbled over rails and ties and dodged jagged projections from the roof before surrendering.

WORLD FORCES COMBINED TO FIGHT SLUMP

Next Two Months to See Confidence Fully Restored, Lawrence Thinks

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1932, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—If the present economic situation is pictured with a number of battle fronts, the news that has developed in the last 48 hours warrants the statement that a coincidence of powerful forces is tending to bring about a recovery through this, the most important stage of the whole depression in the next 60 days.

The battlefronts are domestic and foreign with a number of vital situations dovetailing in the whole question of restoring credit confidence. Here is what they would look like if communications were issued on each.

Reparation front—work is expected to begin on the agreement between France and Britain on a moratorium of two or three years beyond next June. This would have to be accepted by the United States as there would be no alternative except to collect debts by force. The mere announcement that France had agreed would bolster up at once the situation with respect to credits, especially the latter, since it would mean an assurance of immediate resumption in trade.

Action in Congress
Congressional front—passage of the bill creating the reconstruction finance corporation is assured, which means the reopening of America's "long term money bank," which has been closed for more than a year to the refunding of maturing obligations for American industrial and railroad enterprises. The federal bank bill is moving toward adoption which will affect favorably the federal land bank bonds and the situation with respect to millions of farm mortgages. Also the federal loan bill to aid building of small residences is in the offing and probably will be passed soon.

Railroad front—hearings looking toward the consummation of a consolidation plan are progressing and an early decision is expected. Already the two decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States on rate questions have heartened the railroads and given them an opportunity to recoup revenues that might otherwise have been lost. The railroad credit corporation with its expected $100,000,000 of increased credit is now set up. The reconstruction finance corporation is to ease the flotation of refunding issues on bonds that come due in the present year, including relief to the banks now holding about $35,000,000 of short term loans to railroads. A cut in wages as a consequence of negotiations between labor leaders and rail executives is confidently predicted.

Bus Regulations
Finally, motor bus regulations and amendments of existing laws which would hereafter permit the railroads to go more widely into truck and passenger carrying by motor are in prospect and have the hearty support of the Interstate Commerce commission. Rail executives regard the foregoing program as the turn in the tide of railroad affairs.

Geneva battlefront—world opinion is being mobilized under the leadership of the United States and Great Britain so that the forthcoming conference on reduction of armament will be in a large sense a conference to organize peace and assure stability. Secretary Stimson speaks of it as the most momentous conference in which America will have participated since the war. If it is successful

ECONOMY AT MEALS LAUDED IN REPORT TO IOWA-CO BOARD

Mineral Point—(AP)—Frugal diets of two officials impressed the Iowa-coastal committee when it inspected the county asylum and farm last summer.

"Superintendent Livingston eats no potatoes," the committee observed in a report just published. "This is a wonderful saving to the county and should be taken into consideration by the committee on taxation and finance."

FATHER NOWADAYS ONLY HOUSEHOLD FOOTBALL, CLAIM

Evanston, Ill.—(AP)—After observing the operations of a Northwestern university clinic, designed to insure happier and more permanent marriages, Prof. Ernest R. Mowrer has come to the conclusion that father in the present day family is nothing more than a household football.

"Father," he added, "is lucky nowadays if the children look upon him as a something more than a meddling outsider or an ally to be catered to when support is needed to overcome the wishes of the mother."

Prof. Mowrer, who is connected with the university's department of sociology, said he held to the belief that the American family has disintegrated faster in the last decade than at any other time in history.

THAT'S SPEED
St. Louis—Pictures taken at one-thousandth of a second were taken here by a new X-ray tube in a demonstration before the Radiological Society of North America. With this tube doctors will be able to survey the interior of a human body much more thoroughly, it is said. The tube is known as the "electric dam tube."

ful in introducing a new spirit in Europe and creating an atmosphere of reconciliation such as followed the Locarno meeting, the results will be incalculable especially in assuring the investors of the world that Europe has not lost its sanity and its recuperative ability in the face of the most severe political and nationalistic differences.

Credit Conditions
Credit front—American banks are in position to weather the crisis but they cannot indefinitely withstand the attack made by the sniping of hoarders and the rumor-mongers. The desire to maintain liquidity is so strong in American banks that credit is being withheld to large and small business men which ordinarily would be granted. American business cannot stand such a severe curtailment of credit for a prolonged period without an avalanche of failures. Hence the introduction of $2,000,000,000 of funds through the reconstruction finance corporation is really calculated to do at least twenty billion dollars worth of credit work, which is deemed to be more than sufficient to tide America over the worst period of the depression and through the convalescent or reconstruction period which is expected to begin after the first quarter of 1932 has been safely traversed.

The prospect of the realization of victory on all battlefronts are a matter of conjecture, of course, but the climax on all fronts is coming at about the same time. Hence the growing feeling here that from now on public opinion will press on all battlefronts against fatal delays and for decisive action.

Producers Search Corners Of World For New Pictures

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
(Copyright, 1932 by Cons. Press)
Hollywood, Cal.—(CPA)—Romance may be right around the corner, like prosperity, but Hollywood is searching out the far corners of the world to find it for the coming years of pictures. Romance, it appears, is to be the big thing. Back to the simple varieties. That sort of stuff.

There's probably more romance in Hollywood to the square inch than anywhere else on earth but the motion picture studios are abandoning the home grown product for an intensive combing of the south seas, the north pole and the far east to find the little golden fleck of adventurous thrill which will make a picture different. That is to say, which will make a picture make a profit.

While RKO-Radio has a camera man dogging bombs in China, looking for the lure of the Orient, and finding it in the lull between hostilities, Paramount has a man scouting around India to ensnare the seductive appeal of golden anklets, Mahatmas and vatnots. And now darning it Sol Lesser isn't going to grab the Arctic circle and melt romance out of its frozen grip.

Film Expedition
It's for the purpose of making a super-adventure and expedition film that Lesser has signed up Commander Donald B. MacMillan, the explorer who was with the Peary outfit which discovered the north pole. MacMillan, who already has a quantity of motion picture records of his arctic expeditions, plans to take thousands of feet more of film when he returns to the far north next summer. On that occasion he expects to use aircraft to enable him to bring back from the pole those records buried there by Peary.

Sol Lesser is now releasing pictures from the South Seas taken by the author Zane Grey. It is the producer's aim to have expeditions make talks in every faraway spot of the world, if only to prove that romance doesn't depend on climate. Mack Bennett, also, has not been too busy with plans for a super feature comedy, containing nearly a dozen novel comedians, to shoot some more adventure pictures of deep sea fishing off the coast of Mexico. These embody the romance of the vast deep quite as much as the bathing beauties ever did and furnish even more laughs than the Keystone cove of biased memory.

Which all goes to show that if you have a good camera man you can find the simple verities, adventure and romance anywhere except at home. They shine from icebergs and east Indian bazaars, from Chinese paddy fields and Cannibal islands. They also glimmer considerably along Hollywood boulevard, but that's another story.

Who's News Today

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright 1932, By Cons. Press.
New York (CPA)—Most Great British careers seem neatly grooved and much alike. Here's a variant in the Earl of Lytton, accepting an appointment to league of nations Manchuian commission. Scion of an ancient line, he entered the house of lords to joust valiantly for the down-trodden British waterwoman. He wears his hair long; his clothes give a hint of the literary bohemian; he abhors the roast beef of merry England and lives on rice and nuts; he is a "Fletcher" and chews each bite of food 40 times; he is a total abstainer from liquor, a connoisseur of art, a godson of Queen Victoria and a crack ski-jumper.

That sky blue book, leaves toiled in faded gold, on the dusty lower left hand shelf of that old book case will be "Lucille." It was written by Owen Meredith, Lord Lytton's father, to cause more sighs and palpitations among the belles of the nineties than did Pindar's odes among the hard-boiled Latins. His grandfather was Edward Bulwer-Lytton, famous Victorian novelist and author of "The Last Days of Pompeii." Edward's wife rocked England with slanderous charges against her husband.

He wrote a book, "The Budget of the Bubble Family," so erratic that it is charitably interpreted as indicating that the old gentleman was not quite responsible. The present Lord Lytton devoted years to writing a biography of his grandfather, and answering various "calumnies." Born in Simla, India, Lord Lytton was for five years governor of Bengal. He was lord of the admiralty and British commissioner of propaganda in France in 1918. He looks like a cross between a British nobleman and a Queen Elizabeth used to weekend at the Lytton's little country place of 5,000 acres in Hertfordshire—still there.

The leading juvenile role in the Chicago-Nebraska melodrama of Guy Winkler and the stolen bonds, with its epilogue of a national bank robbery syndicate, goes to a sleuth whose type has never been outlined by S. S. Van Dine or Saxe Rohmer. Alexander Jamie, director of Chicago's "secret six," is a quiet, shy man, who always catches the 5:15 to Beverly, his suburban home, and who never wore a set of false whiskers. On Oct. 31, 1930, Jamie was granted a furlough from his Washington job as chief of the special intelligence bureau, to aid the Chicago Association of Commerce in the organization and work of the "Secret Six."

He had federal, state and municipal powers, legal and extra-legal, by which he outkanked even the chief of police or the state's attorney. Born and reared in Pullman, Chicago suburb, he had been in law enforcement work all his adult life and knew the ways of the wayward thereabouts. At Washington, he was first deputy commissioner under E. C. Yellowley and then chief of the special intelligence unit. He is six feet tall, slender and quiet as a mill pond. His wife is principal of one of the Chicago schools.

Some unemployed Pepsys with plenty of time on his hands will some day write his observations on suspenders and great minds. Clarence Darrow snaps them dramatically in the court room. Governor "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma flaunted his red suspenders for years but put his coat on when he became governor. John J. Blaine, usually coarser, wore red suspenders in the Wisconsin legislatures and made them like it. Today, as Senators Blaine throws a switch on President Hoover's $2,000,000,000 finance corporation, his also red suspenders are, in the metamorphosis of a statesman, shrouded under a coat, but still occasionally snapped.

Young John J. Blaine, farmer's boy of Escabel, started his career through getting out of hard work. A tree fell on him, eliminating him from horse-wrangling and hay-shoveling, in both of which he excelled. So they sent him to Valparaiso college. He went to the state senate and then, successively, became attorney general, governor and United States senator. He loves to tinker with automobiles and, in 1924, running for governor, he entirely re-built the engine of his 1914 car.

It Is Said--

By a bird lover in Appleton that now would be an excellent time to put out shelters in the backyards and fill them with cracked corn and bread crumbs. She says that the box elders, and the low bushes are abundant with winter birds trying to peck off the dry and frozen bits of food.

FAIR OFFICERS TO ATTEND STATE MEET

BY W. F. WINSEY
Seymour—The following officers of the Seymour Fair and Driving Park association will attend the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Fairs Jan. 27 to 29 at Hotel Schroeder, Milwaukee: F. W. Huth, president; H. P. Leininger, treasurer, and George F. Fiedler, secretary. While at the meeting the officers will book the grandstand attraction for the fair to be held Aug. 18 to 20.

"By booking attractions this early the officers are always sure to get the best acts on the market," explained Secretary Fiedler. "Plans are now under way to make this our banner fair year and we again assure our patrons of a high class fair."

Congress Today

Senate—Pushes debate on reconstruction corporation bill. Navy committee continues hearings on building up fleet. Manufactures sub-committee opens hearings on beer bill. Finance committee goes on with foreign security probes. Walter S. Gifford to appear before manufactures committee on federal relief proposals. House—Debates the Democratic tariff bill. Hearings on waterway projects continue before the rivers and harbors committee. Hearings on Muscle Shoals resumed by the military committee.

West Green Bay Five Expected To Give Appleton Real Battle

ORANGE, PURPLE CLASH TONIGHT AT LATTER'S GYM

Oshkosh at East, Chairs at Fondy, Manitowoc at Marinette

FRIDAY'S GAME

Oshkosh at East Green Bay.
Appleton at West Green Bay.
Sheboygan at Fond du Lac.
Manitowoc at Marinette.

APPLETON high school basketball team will play the first of a series of crucial games tonight when it meets West Green Bay high school at the Bay. The meeting is the first between the two schools and with Oshkosh on the heels next week, the Orange has its work all out for it.

The Shields quintet is undefeated to far this season, and every team in the loop is hoping to be the first to knock off the co-champs. From last year, West Green Bay has been defeated but once this season—by Sheboygan, but just before the holidays turned in a great exhibition against Oshkosh and triumphed, the defeat being the only one suffered by the Sawdust city so far this year.

But the Orange-West game tonight isn't the only one that will have great bearing on the Valley flag race. Oshkosh is booked to play East Green Bay and one or the other will fall leaving one less team in the second place tie. At Fond du Lac, Sheboygan and the Chairs will hook up and although Fondy has lost two games she stands a good chance of beating the Chairs. In the other game tomorrow the two kellar, Manitowoc and Marinette will clash at Marinette, one to have the cellar position to the other.

Indications are that Appleton will go into Friday night's game with the same combination of boys that has carried the colors in the first three league games. Mortell and Verrier will be the guards, Peotter will jump center and Rule and Fritsch will play the forwards.

Three reserves have been seeing a lot of action during the past week and may get into tonight's game. One is Wallace, junior center who understands Bill Peotter and who will get the nod if Peotter's bad knee goes worse. Bowly is under-studying the two Orange forwards and may see more than a little service. Murphy is the reserve guard.

Two games are scheduled for the evening's performance. The first will feature second teams from the two schools. The first game will begin about 7 o'clock with the varsity battle about 8 o'clock.

BELOIT CAGE FIVE BEATS RIPON, 31-25

Gold Is Too Tall; Glenn Johnson Leads Scorers With 11 Points

Ripon—(P)—Beloit college cagers defeated the Ripon college quintet in the opening Big Four conference game here last night, 31 to 25.

The Beloit team led through most of the game, holding a 15 to 12 advantage at the half. Ripon was unable to break down the strong Gold team's defense because of an advantage in height which Beloit used to the utmost.

Glenn Johnson, of Ripon, leading mid-west scorer last year, led the field with 11 points.

GOPHER HOCKEY SIX MAY ENTER OLYMPICS

Minneapolis—(P)—The University of Minnesota today held the right to play in the finals to determine the United States hockey representative for the Olympic games, but the Gophers were undecided whether to compete further for the honor.

Minnesota entered the finals last night by defeating the Penn State team of Michigan, five goals to four. Andy Toth counted the winning goal in the final period, on a pass from MacInnis. Laurie Parker scored three times for Minnesota, twice on assists from Toth.

Fritz Crisler, athletic director at Minnesota, planned to negotiate again today with Olympic hockey authorities at New York regarding the final playoff. A Boston-New York combination had been selected to meet the semi-final winner. Crisler objected to that on the ground that the pick of two teams would give the easterners an unfair advantage.

Natty Champ Arrives For Wars

Max Schmeling in togery that almost sent boxing writers scurrying for interviewers of movie actors is shown above as he appeared on arrival in New York from Germany to defend his heavyweight title. He expects to meet Mickey Walker in February at Miami, Fla., and possibly Jack Dempsey in June or September.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

A Soft Touch?

UPON reading that King Levin-sky, rising young Chicago heavyweight, was matched to meet Paulino Uzcudun Jan. 15, you might have said, off-hand, "Well, well, so they are hauling that old punching bag out again!" But perhaps one should accord one's self the luxury of a second thought about that. The King may find out in this one that there's nothing to that old bologna "the lung can do no wrong."

Army-Navy

The announcement that the Army and Navy would resume their games next year was not so much of a surprise, after all. A couple of weeks before the breach finally was healed.

AHL, KRAMER TOP GREEN BAY CARD

Leo Champeau Matched With Hank Rasmussen in Semi-Windup Bout

Green Bay—When Hans Ahl, flashy Oshkosh boxer appears on the amateur boxing card at the Columbus club here tonight fans will have an opportunity of seeing one of the fastest boys in Wisconsin in action.

Ahl takes on Marty Kramer, Sheboygan in the windup attraction on the six-bout program sponsored by the club.

In a long list of fights, Ahl has won decisions from some of the best amateur boxers in the Valley. Among his outstanding fights were two with Billy Hundertmark, of Green Bay. Both were fast, slashing affairs with each boy gaining a verdict.

Ahl hits with either hand; is fast and shifty and can take considerable punishment. Kramer should prove a tough foe for Ahl. The Sheboygan youth is a fighter of the rough, tough school. He is not as skillful at boxing as the Oshkosh youth but is a better puncher.

Leo Champeau gets the semi-wind-up spot again, meeting Hank Rasmussen, Appleton, in a three rounder. Champeau has been coming along fast in amateur starts, winning his fights with plenty to spare.

Art Van Ess also appears on the card, taking on Oscar Olson, Wau-paca, at 155 pounds. Three other bouts have been arranged. All appear to be evenly matched. The preliminaries bring together Leo Hirschman, Denmark and Shorty Chyneweth, Manitowoc, 138 pounds; Norbert Gerardin, Green Bay and Leroy Kohls, Sheboygan, 134; Wolfe Giger, West side Green Bay and Albert Dorepowski, East side fighter of this city.

TWO TEAMS TIED IN SIX DAY BIKE RACE

Milwaukee—(P)—Two teams were tied for the lead early today after pedaling 536 miles in 28 hours in the six-day bicycle race being staged at the Milwaukee Auditorium.

The leaders in laps were Torchy Peden and Polly Parrott, the Canadian-Irish team, and Pete Smessert and Oscar Van Slambrouke, Australian-Holland pair. Bernard Stiller and Tony Schaller, the German team, headed the field on points gained during the sprints.

RIVER FALLS PEDS WIN FROM EAU CLAIRE

River Falls college cagers got away to a good start in conference competition here last night by defeating the Eau Claire Teachers 45 to 23. River Falls led at the half, 24 to 10.

FRIDAY'S SCHEDULE

Neenah at Oconto.
Menasha at Oconto Falls.
Algoma at DePere.
New London at West DePere.
Sturgeon Bay at Kewaunee.
Clintonville at Kaukauna (non-conference).

DE PERE—Initial tests for four teams of the Northeastern Wisconsin conference against league rivals are scheduled Friday night, and the results will afford a line on the relative strength of those teams and the eight others which have been busy for the last month.

The feature match of this week's card is that between Neenah and Oconto High teams at Oconto. The game will be the first for Neenah against a league opponent, but the boys coached by Ole Jorgensen invaded Oconto with a notable victory in their credit—last over Appleton High, winner of three games in the Fox River Valley loop and considered one of the strongest teams in the state by many. Oconto, with three victories, has taken it "on the nose" once, Shawano achieving a one point victory.

Another game that will be watched with interest throughout the circuit is that to be played between Neenah and Oconto Falls High at the Falls. After losing to DePere in a hard fought game, Oconto Falls beat Shawano, and sent that team into the defeated column, leaving only DePere and Kewaunee unbeaten at this time.

Victories are looked for by Kewaunee High over Sturgeon Bay, by DePere over Algoma, and by West Pere over New London in the remaining exhibitions Friday night.

WINDY THOMAS WINS PROFESSIONAL DEBUT

New London Amateur Star Beats Herbie Schulz, Winona, Minn.

Latrosse—Windy Thomas, New London, former king of the light weight amateurs in the Fox River valley, won his first professional fight here last night when he outpointed Herbie Schulz of Winona, Minn.

In the windup Mel Coleman, Duluth, Minn., 158, outpointed Kid Leonard, of East Moline, Ill., 156. The bout was a rematch following the victory of Coleman on a foul a month ago when Coleman was aggressor most of the way and drew Leonard through the ropes three times after knocking him down for a nine count in the second round.

Pat O'Brien, St. Paul, 157, knocked out Jimmy King, Wheeler, 164, in the third round of a scheduled six round semi-windup.

May Return to Valley
Windy Thomas, New London boxer, may quit LaCrosse Teachers college and enroll at Oshkosh, according to word from the latter city. The New London youth expressed the desire recently after he fought on an Oshkosh amateur card.

WOLVES, SPORTS TO MEET IN "Y" LOOP

Two games are scheduled for Saturday afternoon in the Old Boys league of the Y. M. C. A. The first game will show the undefeated Wolves battling the Valley Sports.

Garden tonight that there are indications soon will step up a notch and confine his activities to the lightweight.

Forced to cut down from 140 to 125 pounds in less than two weeks, Battalino has managed to lose the excess poundage but not without difficulty.

He weighed 135 pounds for his last bout here a couple of weeks ago and knocked out Al Slinger in two rounds.

Dave Shade, California middleweight veteran, will face Jolo Lagrey, tough Armory fighter, in one preliminary tonight and Freddie Miller, Cincinnati featherweight, will meet Johnny Fena of New York in another.

Flint, Mich.—Eddie Anderson, Chicago, outpointed Roger Bernard, Flint, (10); Eddie Terry, St. Louis, outpointed Don McLeod, Northville, Mich., (8).

More than 30 polo players will compete in winter games at Miami, Fla., this year.

Van Dykes (3)	843	817	841	2501

Van Dyke Coals reported the only three and nothing victory in City Major league bowling during the week. The team beat the Brecklin Specials in three games. Felt rolled 214 in the first win, Brown 176 in the second and then 221 in the third.

G. Beck, Jr., rolled a neat 620 series as the What-a-Team beat the R. and S. Shoes in two games. He hit 223 in the first game but his team lost because his mates failed to help and because C. Tormow rolled 219 for the R. and S. In the second game Beck hit 200 and his team copped by a 201 by C. Tormow.

In the third game Beck rolled 197 and his team copped again. Tormow had a 609 series for the R. and S.

Dollar Cleaners won the first game from the Welsgerbers by 16 pins despite a 233 by Amby Welsgerber. The second game went to the Welsgerbers by one pin, and the third to the Cleaners by 10 pins.

Parker Pure Paints dropped into second place, Genal Truckers going to third place and Arcades, Fond du Lac, in fourth position. National Banks of Neenah and Hoppies Wickers of Appleton are tied for fifth.

ORGANIZE JUNIOR CAGE LOOP AT "Y"

Organization of the Junior Boys basketball league of the Y. M. C. A. now is being worked out by C. C. Bailey, boy's work secretary. Youngsters under 15 years of age have been asked to register for the league and can enter their own gang teams or will be assigned to squads.

The first games of the season will be played on Saturday, Jan. 15. Games will be played every Saturday morning from 10 o'clock to 12:30. Boys now playing in the Old Boy league will not be permitted to play in the junior loop.

Entry List Of State Pin Tournament Closes Jan. 10

WELLS here we are coming down the stretch with only a few days left before the entries close on Jan. 10 for the greatest Wisconsin State Bowling Tournament which is to be held at Kenosha opening Jan. 23 and closing about Feb. 23. This means a continued parade of bowlers for about five or six weeks in one of the best cities in the state to topple the pins for big counts and big prize list which is now positively assured on account of the splendid early response for entries.

The prize list for last spring was over $20,000 and we believe that this year will be equalled or surpassed at Kenosha in 1932. At least the effort is being made and it is up to the bowlers to complete the promotion for the great tournament. We believe that the bowlers of the state, judging from the many entries and inquiries to this office, are going to make the big show a success.

In all the state cities where men are listed who are connected officially with the Wisconsin State Bowling Association, we find the

Hint Wisconsin Regents May Reinstate Little As Badger Sports Director

Turmoil Over U. W. Athletics Increases Under Investigation

MADISON—Big George Little may be reinstated as director of Wisconsin athletics, and the Wisconsin athletic council, which was found to have forced his resignation, may be completely abolished before the final chapter has been written in the present turmoil over the Badger athletic situation.

From members of the board of regents it was learned Thursday that a movement with this purpose in mind was steadily gaining momentum and might result in the regents' overruling the council or an important athletic matter for the first time.

Following the close of the 1931 season, the athletic council, which has always been considered as the controlling power in selecting coaches and directors, refused to make a hasty decision on the retention or dismissal of Glenn Thistlethwaite as head football coach.

It had not been for the exposure of the forced resignation of Little, the regents might have approved it thinking that it had been voluntary. But now the situation is changed, and the regents may not agree with the council that George Little failed to handle his department efficiently.

Require Faculty Control
A Big Ten rule requires faculty control of athletics, but that may be secured without the services of the athletic council.

The legislative committee added to the force of the movement by the pointed questions which it directed toward Prof. J. E. A. Pyre, chairman of the council.

It cited the case of Jack Ryan, who was hired here as football coach in 1923. The appointment was made, it was said, in opposition to the recommendation of Tom Jones, who was then athletic director.

It insinuated through this and other incidents that the athletic council, in an effort to usurp greater and greater powers, was making a puppet of the athletic director. Under these circumstances, it was held, a director could not handle the department efficiently even if he had the ability and ambition to do so.

Little To Take Stand
Throughout its questions, it was also hinted that the council might be blamed for having prohibited a Marquette-Wisconsin football game for 15 years, and for its failure to schedule several attractive games in past years.

It was evident that the legislative committee was strongly in favor of Little, and it is possible that the regents may recommend to the board of regents that he be retained.

The investigation will probably be continued Friday, according to Assemblyman Krez, but may be deferred until later in the week.

At the next session the chief witness will be George Little himself, who has been working out a thorough report on his administration.

Denmark—In Eastern division games of the Little Nine conference this week, Freedom goes to Brillon, Hilbert to Reedsville, and Wrightstown will swing into action at Denmark.

Unless decided upsets occur, Brillon and Reedsville should coast through to wins with comfortable margins. The Denmark-Wrightstown game, however, has all the earmarks of a fracas that will be nobody's ball game until the final crack of the gun.

Wrightstown, after a slow start, has finally rounded into shape and came within an ace of defeating the powerful Reedsville quintet in its last conference start. Nothing would please Coach Doner and his Wrightstown cagers more than to trip up the fast-traveling Vikings and a battle royal is anticipated.

Other games on the Little Nine calendar for this Friday bring Kimberly and Bear Creek together at Bear Creek while Coach Morrissey and his Pulaski cagers are hosts to the Seymour Redmen. Shelton travels to Hortonville to exchange pleasantries with Coach Morgan's quintet. Only an outside chance of victory is conceded to Hortonville's guests.

DEMPSEY PICKING TOUGH OPPONENTS FOR HIS NEXT TOUR

Manassa Mauler Will Challenge Schmeling if He Finds Old Skill

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS
Copyright, 1932

LOS ANGELES—(CPA)—Having engaged 102 different opponents in 34 exhibition bouts, Jack Dempsey believes he now is ready to tackle tougher timber in his efforts to condition himself for a try at Max Schmeling and the heavyweight championship.

Dempsey, who is spending several days here, plans to meet such fighters as "Dynamite" Jackson, Max Baer, King Levinsky, Johnny Risko and Tommy Loughran within the next few months. It is successful against those fellows the old man mauler will feel assured of his ability to stand up against Schmeling and challenging the German champion.

Dempsey appears to be in better condition than might be imagined. His foot work has speeded up and while he is far removed from the Dempsey of a decade ago, he still should be good enough for most of the present crop of heavies if his legs can stand the strain.

Jack's exhibition tour is something unparalleled in boxing history. He has boxed 102 different opponents in 34 exhibitions and played to 231,155 spectators who paid $477,560 to see him perform. Jack soon will head east for more business and plans to appear in many of the large cities where he was unable to show during the early stages of his tour.

Dempsey claims the best young heavyweight prospect he has encountered since returning to the ring was Art Lasky, who was one of his opponents in Minneapolis. Lasky weighs one hundred ninety-two pounds and stands better than six feet three inches. The youngster opened the bout by popping Jack flush on the chin and Dempsey answered the challenge. They battled all over the ring and were not parted until forty seconds after the bell had rung.

Jack also had a rough time with a big fellow named Angus Snyder in Wichita. Dempsey wanted Snyder to box two rounds but bold Angus wanted four. He got one. Jack rapped Angus on the chin with a right hand and My Snyder was through.

Dempsey is willing to meet any heavyweight in the game except Jack Sharkey and the story hereabout is that he has a mad on against the Boston sailor. Dempsey is negotiating for a July 4 fight here in Los Angeles and if that fails he may stage one for himself at Reno. Always quick to change his mind, Dempsey seems quite in earnest about getting another shot at the heavyweight title and there is no question but that he still is the greatest drawing card in fistiana.

CLEVELAND BUYS TOLEDO MUD HENS

Is Third Club in American Association to Be Owned By Majors

Chicago—(P)—The Toledo club of the American association, which finished last season in receivership, is reasonably certain of getting through the 1932 campaign on its feet financially.

The Mud Hens yesterday were taken over by the Cleveland Indians of the American league, which will operate the minor league franchise as a farm. The club was sold to the highest bidder after the court had decided a bid by Hugh Drennon of Chicago, was not high enough to satisfy the creditors.

Toledo will be the third club in the league to be controlled by a major league organization. The St. Louis Browns control the Milwaukee club, and Columbus is a member of the great St. Louis Cardinal system. Both Milwaukee and Columbus have benefited by players turned over to them by their major league connections, and Toledo fans are hopeful Mud Hens who finished last in 1931, will be helped as much.

MACK FAILS TO MAKE CHANGES IN HIS LINEUP

Manager of A. L. Champs Sticks to Guns; Sox Make Many Changes

(Note—This is the first of two stories reviewing major league lineups and prospects for 1932. Tomorrow a roundup of the national league.)

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK—(AP)—Satisfied his Philadelphia Athletics still are the class of the American league, Connie Mack has decided to stand by his guns in 1932.

A survey by the Associated Press indicates the A's alone of eight league contenders will face the wire in April with exactly the same lineup that closed the 1931 race.

The New York Yankees, have purchased a couple of expensive young infielders and prospects for 1932. Tomorrow a roundup of the national league.)

Washington has obtained Carl Reynolds from the White Sox. He is expected to prove the answer to Walt Johnson's plea for a slugger.

Despite their best efforts, the five other clubs apparently have not been able to acquire what it takes.

Three of them—Cleveland, Detroit and St. Louis—promise to be little, if any, stouter than last year.

Browns Fail to Trade

The Browns did not make a single trade. Cleveland is thinking of shifting Eddie Morgan to the outfield and putting Bruce Cammarer from New Orleans at first. Detroit, sorely in need of batting strength, hopes to find a .300 hitter or two among its newcomers.

The winter's biggest upheaval occurred at Chicago, following the death of the "Old Roman," Charles Comiskey, and the elevation of his son, Louis, to the club presidency. Donie Bush has been replaced by Lew Fonseca as manager.

Under Fonseca's influence, the club did some fancy trading at the annual meeting, and, in the opinion of many observers did itself some good. In addition to Sad Sam Jones and Irving (dumps) Hadley, obtained from Washington, the Sox got another veteran curves in Milton Gaston for whom Lefty Bob Weiland went to Boston. Fonseca hopes Ted Lyons, the great right hander, will return to form.

Should the Boston Red Sox continue to improve as they did under John Collins last season, they might very well prove a sensation. With the exception of Weiland, they obtained no recognized talent from the trading marts but they return with the same combination that fought its way into sixth place late in 1931.

Doc Meanwell Pleased With Showing Of Badger Cagers

MADISON—"Our boys played a magnificent game against Northwestern. We must get them from the floor and with a break or two, we should have won," was the comment made by Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, University of Wisconsin basketball coach, on his return from Evanston where the Badgers dropped a heart-breaking overtime game by a score of 31 to 30 Monday night.

The little doctor, who has tutored nine Badger fives to first place in the Big Ten in his 17 years as cage mentor here, offered no alibi and had only praise for his boys, while at the same time pointing out that Northwestern accomplished an almost impossible feat in sinking 11 out of 12 free throws Monday.

"Until our big men get to coordinating better, we shall be just an ordinary team," Coach Meanwell continued. "I can only repeat what I said at the start of the season—that Wisconsin will lose some games which the spectator might think we should have won, but by the second semester, if all the boys come through their mid-year examinations successfully, they will make trouble for any team they meet."

Men Are Excited

Coach Meanwell pointed out that his less experienced men, entering Big Ten competition for the first time, naturally are tremendously excited and that this often causes them to foul unnecessarily. Revey, playing his first conference game Monday, went out on four personals early in the second half, on which Northwestern scored five points. Valcek made a costly foul and a moment later missed his man, permitting him an easy goal. "This is only natural at first," said Meanwell, "but until they overcome their nervousness—which they will, with experience—it will cost us many points."

Wisconsin's next opponent will be Michigan, Saturday night, at the field houses. The Wolverines did not play Monday, thus permitting Coach Cappon to watch the Badgers against the Wildcats—an advantage since the Wolverines played their last game, Saturday at Syracuse—too far away to permit sending a Wisconsin observer.

Badgers Handicapped

As a result Meanwell will have to send his men into Saturday's game, equipped only with such knowledge of the Wolverine tactics and personnel as he has from previous years. As Michigan has changed coaches, this knowledge will be worth little.

On the point of Michigan having no conference game Monday, Coach Meanwell feels strongly that, generally speaking, schedules of the Big Ten teams should coincide as to the days upon which they play regular games.

The Badger coach will work his squad every day this week, including Friday stating that this showing Saturday night will depend upon the improvement they make in these four days. He realizes that he is risking something in condition, to attain better coordination in the individuals and improvement in their team play.

It is improbable that there will be any shifts in the Wisconsin lineup. Coach Meanwell desires to make changes in personnel once he gets his material thoroughly assayed. Although some of the individuals are not developing as fast as he had hoped, he has confidence in their ultimately coming through, so he will stick to his big men, even if they make occasional costly errors. Experience has taught him that he can count on steady improve ment over the three year period of their eligibility.

So, barring accidents, it will be Captain Marv Steen and Stan Revey, forwards; Roy Oakes, center; and Bobby Foser and Doug Nelson, guards, who will battle the Wolverines Saturday. This is not as rugged a group as Michigan's with Daniels, Hudson and Williamson of football fame, but it is big enough and, it is hoped, clever enough, to battle Coach Cappon's huskies all the way to the final gun.

Sports Question Box

Q.—If two outfielders run together and because of the collision drop a fly ball, is each of them charged with an error?

A.—No. The scorer must determine which of them he thinks made the error.

Q.—Is it true that championship fights as a rule are fixed beforehand? If not, why is it that fighters handled by so-called big managers always are the champions?

A.—This has never been proved. The fact that a big-time manager always has the champion is because he knows the ropes and contrives to place his fighter in good spots, or worth-while matches.

BADGER MORTGAGE DEBT IS REDUCED

Drops from $529,992,000 in 1928 to $502,549,000 on Jan. 1, 1930

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—Following the general downward trend of farm mortgage debt throughout the country, Wisconsin's total farm mortgage debt dropped from $529,992,000 on Jan. 1, 1928 to $502,549,000 on Jan. 1, 1930, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

During this period, beginning with the peak of farm mortgage debt in 1923, the total farm mortgage debt throughout the country dropped from $3,468,000,000 to $2,241,000,000, a decrease of 24 per cent.

Wisconsin's farm mortgage debt in January 1930 was distributed among different classes of farms, as follows: $387,902,000 owned by owner managed farms; $98,433,000 owned on tenant farms; and $16,214,000 owned on manager farms.

The following appeared in a recent ad of Lyon & Healy -

"McMurdo Silver, head of the Silver-Marshall Company, has doubtless contributed as much to the progress of radio as any other one man. Fourteen times in eight years, he has devised new improvements which have since been adopted by all radio receivers. Some important elements in the chassis of every radio is a development from the laboratories of McMurdo Silver. Eleven years ago, McMurdo designed his first Superheterodyne Circuit, which won national recognition. His radios were first to feature Screen-grid tubes and he led the field with tone control. Lyon & Healy - always scanning the radio horizon for new and finer sets - has long recognized the sound genius of this master radio builder."

Many of the largest music houses in the United States feature the Silver-Marshall this year... Let us give you a demonstration and you too will be enthused over this finer radio.

SUNSET PASS by Zane Grey

SYNOPSIS: Trueman Rock takes a position with Gage Preston, although Preston has a bad reputation for rustling cattle, because Rock has fallen in love with Preston's daughter, Thiry. There is some mystery about the ranch Rock finds, for Thiry is afraid and her brother Ash is hostile.

Chapter 27
GUILTY

ROCK jerked in his chair. "Preston - I never let myself have - such hope," he burst out. "Faith heart never won fair lady," quoted the rancher. Then he frowned and added, tensely, "Declare yourself, like a man, if you want my interest."

"Boss - I - I don't quite savvy," replied Rock, uncertainly. "What more can I say? ... Unless - I suppose, Preston, when a man falls honest in love he should have honorable intentions. If I had any they sure would be honorable. But, Lord I never dared even dream of Thiry as my wife."

"But you'd like to marry her?" queried this astounding ranchman. Rock started a moment. "I'd be the happiest and luckiest fellow on earth."

"Wal, that's talkin'," returned Preston, gruffly. "I was about changin' my mind that you wasn't such a sudden fellow, after all. Do you want my advice?"

"Preston, I - I'd be most grateful for anything," replied Rock, bewildered.

"Thiry ought to be told."

"Aw, no! ... So soon? Before I've proved what it'd only distress her - do my cause harm."

"Cowboy, you don't know women," said Preston. "The very fact that you came to me an' declared yourself, straight like your name, will go far with Thiry, an' all of us 'ceptin' Ash. An' even Ash couldn't help but see that was right. He beat a cowboy once who dalled after Thiry without talkin' marriage."

"Like as not he'd try to beat me - if I did tell her," rejoined Rock, with a nervous laugh. The very idea threw him into a fever of panic.

"Wal, I'm appreciatin' your fine fellin's, Rock, so I'll tell her myself," replied the rancher and turning to the open door he called, "Lucy."

"Preston!" gasped Rock, rising. At this moment Lucy poked her disheveled head and bright face in at the door. "Daddy, did you call?"

"Where's your sister?"

"Which one? Thiry is here. But I don't see Alice."

"Wal, reckon Thiry will do. Send her in," said Preston, dryly.

Rock, standing as if paralyzed, heard the child call raptly and then light, quick footfall. Immediately the dark doors framed a slender form in white, with wistful expectant face and great, doubtful eyes. "Come in, lass, an' shut the door," said her father, as he knocked the shes from his clasp. There seemed nothing momentous in voice or manner.

"Mr. Rock, I thank you," said Thiry, through trembling pale lips "for the honor you do me. ... I'm sorry I cannot accept."

Rock bowed, with what little dignity he could assume.

"Thiry, wait a minute," said her father, as she made for the door. He caught her and held her, unmistakable affection in his grasp. "I'm sorry to upset you. But these things will happen. Don't think your dad wants to get rid of you. I'm powerful fond of you, Thiry. You always was my favorite. It's only that lately - wal, I don't want to worry you about what might happen to me. I might not always be here to take care of you."

"Dad, what do you mean?" she asked, hurriedly.

"Nothin' much," he replied, emphatically. "I'd like to have you futuro settled before - before long An' Rock struck me about right. Aw, there you're cryin'. Wal, run along. I shore can't stand a cryin' woman, not even you. An' it's no great comfort to Rock."

"Thiry held her head high as she walked by Rock."

"Preston, what'n hell did you do that for?" exclaimed Rock when she was gone.

(Copyright, Zane Grey)

Rock meets open suspicion of Preston tomorrow and does some investigating of his own.

BANK REPORTS $80,000 GAIN IN DEPOSITS

Stockholders of Clintonville Institution Hold Annual Meeting

Clintonville.—Stockholders of the Dairyman's State Bank held their annual meeting Wednesday in the basement of St. Martin Lutheran church. The meeting was very well attended, there being over 400 stockholders present, out of the 450 who had stock in this institution.

Cashier Max Stieg gave the annual report. There was a gain of over $80,000 in deposits during the past year. Stockholders of the Dairyman's State Bank received the usual dividend at the meeting.

Richard J. Lawless of Milwaukee, assistant cashier of the First Wisconsin National bank there was the principal speaker. He stated that the Dairyman's Bank of this city ranks among the highest in Wisconsin banking circles.

Judge William Martin of Waupaca, who was scheduled to speak, was unable to come because of an injury to his foot which he received in a fall at his home the past week.

A talk on "Bank Protection" was given by Charles Sharp of Minneapolis, representative of the McClintock Company which recently installed the handicaps in the Dairyman's State bank here.

Others called upon by Mr. Stieg for short talks were Rueben Grob, president and general manager of the Clintonville Canning Company, and J. D. Cotton who told about conditions in Cuba as he saw them on a recent trip there.

All directors were reelected by a unanimous vote. They are Charles Bohn, J. A. Perkins, H. A. Rindt, George Long, Richard Schoepke, W. J. Krieger and Henry Knit. This group will elect their officers at another meeting.

A luncheon was served at noon to all present at the stockholder's meeting by wives of the directors and officers of the bank.

Your Birthday

"APRIL CORN"

If January 9th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to noon, from 4:15 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 8:30 a. m. to 9:15 a. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:59 p. m.

Fate is not destined to being in a hazardous mood on January 9th, and few leads of effort will fall on fertile ground. It will be a time of mental awakening and change. New interests may be taken up and old pursuits forsaken. The evening hours are the most important and productive ones of the day.

This child born on this January 9th will have a cool and composed nature. It will be a born leader and an influence in its circle of friends.

It will lean towards culture and refinement and will like quiet amusements. It will be systematic in its work, and personally neat and tidy.

You have a very hard and thoughtful nature and patient to a degree that will often bring you mental anguish because of others' thoughtless imposition. Your temperament is such that you will carry in life form positive habits and will not have, in later life, much adaptability. You should marry young before your habits become too set. You have a great sense of order and you cannot work in confusion. If women you very much to have your work get behind and you almost make a fetish of having a time and place for everything.

Your perseverance and steadiness will bring you success where impulsive action would bring failure. Mentally, you must dig for things as you are a slow thinker and reasoner. Your memory, however, is reliable and what you do know, you know well. Your ambitions are moderate and within your reach. The light shaft of conversation does not interest you, but you love to talk with people who are interested along the lines your reading takes.

Your home to you is the most important thing in the world and you spare no effort in making it a haven of comfort and peace. You

DOG PHONES POLICE TO SET HIM FREE

Fort Worth, Tex.—"Bow! Wow!" boomed into the ear phones of a telephone operator in the main exchange. The barking continued. The operator, puzzled, called police and gave them the number of a filling station where the barking was coming from.

Police, suspecting a holdup, rushed to the station. There they found a black, shaggy dog locked in the station. The dog had failed to attract the attention of anyone, and had become frantic to get out. In dashing around inside the station it had knocked the telephone off its stand. Its bark was then picked up and transmitted to the ears of the operator.

Dick Knight, attendant at the station, said the dog was a stranger and whined outside the station until he let him inside to warm. The dog went to sleep and Knight forgot about him, locking him inside when he quit work.

Stimson Warns Against Impairment of Interests in Manchuria

open door and equal opportunity. Out aim is to promote the open door in every way possible."

He called attention to the fact that Secretary Stimson's communication bears "a marked similarity" to the note of Secretary Bryan, forwarded on May 13, 1915, regarding the so-called "21 demands" in China. He stated that the United States government was not prepared to recognize any treaty agreement which might impair the territorial integrity of China, known as the open door policy. Secretary Stimson's note, he pointed, is more formal than the 1915 communication, which, it was assumed then, did not call for a real authority.

Japan, he said, recognizes, as has often been stated, China's sovereignty over Manchuria, but it is the contention of the government that no actual authority has ever existed. The holding of the Sun Yat Sen flag in 1928 by Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, he said, was a mere pretense, and even the Japanese acceptance of the command of the Nationalist government in the Nanjing army and navy was without any real meaning.

Marshall Chang, he said, never consulted Nanjing regarding his policies. He appointed his own railroad and other commissions.

Regarding Manchuria's future, Tokyo holds, he said, that neither Japan nor the United States ought to attempt to interfere with the Chinese establishing their own government in Manchuria in accordance with the principle of self-determination. Japan's military action, he said, has not infringed the Kellogg pact because Japan acted, and is acting, entirely in self-defense "which is the fundamental right of a nation to its existence, recognized both by the nine-power pact and the Kellogg pact."

Washington (AP)—Sacred treaty rights of the American government and its citizens in the Manchurian situation have been invoked by Secretary Stimson to prevent impairment of the interests of the United States.

In formal notes to Japan and China, the American government in unmistakable terms asserted it could not admit Japan's legal right to occupy Manchuria. Furthermore, it warned the two that the United States does not intend to recognize any agreement which might impair the open door policy, the nine-power treaty or the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact.

Six other powers have been notified of the American action and similar action by them is considered likely. They were the other signatories of the nine-power pact besides America, Japan and China: Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Portugal. Their ambassadors or ministers here were handed copies of the note for transmission to their foreign offices.

The despatch of the notes followed a series of discussions on the whole situation between the secretary and the British, French and Italian ambassadors. Measures which would be taken under American policy to protect interests in Manchuria were not specified.

Secretary Stimson did not comment in making public the note, but its purpose underneath the direct applications apparently was to gather world support for China's treaty structure and encourage the interested powers in protecting their rights in the dispute.

British Envoy Acts
Meanwhile, a note from Tokyo that the British ambassador had immediately inquired at the foreign office about impairment of British interests in the Peiping Mukden railway.

The only comment on the American action at the state department was an insistence that the United States raises no question on Japan's legal treaty rights in Manchuria. Likewise, the United States will not intrude in any Sino-Japanese settlement of the problem except to see that its rights and those of its citizens are protected. The United States would also object, it was added to any settlement forced upon the Chinese contrary to provisions of the anti-war pact.

The note was not connected with the incident of attack by four Japanese at Mukden on Oct. 18, Chamberlain, American consul at Mukden, and a settlement of that problem has accepted Japan's apology and only awaits word of adequate punishment of the assailants to declare the incident closed.

Contrasted with repeated expressions of "concern" over the situation, the American action is the most sweeping and definite step which has yet been taken by a third party in the dispute.

Japanese Viewpoint
Tokio (AP)—Japan prepared today to receive Secretary Stimson's note involving the nine-power treaty in the Manchurian situation "with calm," a government spokesman said.

There is little to be said pending official notification of Washington action," the spokesman declared. "In view of the circumstances, however, there seems not much chance of Japan modifying her action, which was more or less forced upon her through necessity."

"The government, however, will receive anything in the nature of Washington's action with calm and we, of course, will give the most careful consideration to any communication along the line of that reported in the press."

"We have made our position clear time and again. Therefore our first impression is that the notes are merely a formal protest of the position of the powers."

Japan has contended from the beginning that the affair concerns

HOG TRADE EXPANDS ON LIVESTOCK MART

Prices Set Back from 5 to 10 Cents Per Pound in Chicago

Chicago (AP)—Expansion in hog marketing the country over was too rapid for the good of the trade. Prices were set back 5 to 10 cents as it became apparent that receipts were now running at a rate exceeding that of a year ago. Principal markets in the aggregate had 24,000 more hogs today than a year ago, shrinkage of 19,000.

Shippers had most of the early buying, but small killers were close seconds in point of activity. Lights weighing 170 to 200 lbs. were favored while packers, who had 6,000 hogs on through consignments, were not so active. Early in the day they were interested primarily in packing sows around $3.50.

Quality of cattle supplied in the local alleys today was plain, bulk of the steers and butcher stock being sought on a price rather than a quantity basis. Slightly larger than the usual Friday supply, the run of $5.00 carried a few loads of fed steers, but none showed choice finish. Quotations opened generally steady.

Buyers of sheep and lambs were able to consult their own leisure today in the selection of stock to fill their orders. Enough fat lambs and matured sheep were offered to fill all requirements. Liberal offerings during the latter part of the week made prices look top-heavy and concessions were necessary to move fat lambs.

The government repeatedly has assured that it has no intention of annexing Manchuria and that its occupation of the territory is merely a temporary measure designed to obtain justice regarding her treaty rights.

DEMAND FOR WHEAT FALLS OFF ON MART

Tends to Pull Speculative Buying Support from Under Cereals

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor
Chicago (AP)—Demand for wheat off in overseas demand for North American wheat did much to pull speculative buying support out from under all grains today.

Late advances in securities were largely ignored, and there was a material narrowing of the spread between Liverpool and Chicago wheat quotations, with Liverpool May down only 1/4 of a cent over Chicago at the time Liverpool closed today. On the other hand, domestic milling demand here for wheat showed substantial improvement.

Indiana as well as Illinois points offered corn on a larger scale. Shipping demands here for corn continued slack.

An all around tumble of a cent a bushel in wheat took place before the market steadied itself. No rallying power of any consequence was apparent at this stage. Intimations that North American seaboard holdings of wheat were diminishing rapidly, and that Antwerp and Holland were showing more interest in United States hard winter wheat failed to act as a market stimulus.

Considerable notice was taken of reports from the southern hemisphere that wheat has harvested larger crops than was earlier looked for. It was current comment that most of the Argentine surplus would be readily available to supply European needs. On the other hand, assertions that Australia was no longer the factor in European markets that it was by word that Australian exports this week to Europe were almost triple last week's total. Corn and oats sympathized with wheat weakness.

KAW FIVE OPENS CAGE SCHEDULE THIS EVENING

Meets Clintonville in First Northeastern League
Game of Season

Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school basketball team will open its schedule in the Northeastern Wisconsin conference here Friday evening with Clintonville high cagers as the opponents. The local team defeated the alumni cagers in a recent game.

Coach Paul E. Little has six lettermen on his squad. Four of the players are starters. They are Captain Clarence Koch, center; Jack Van Lieshout, guard; Ross Farwell, guard; and Arthur Sager, forward. Donald Dix, a forward, and George Schwendeman, also a forward, are the other lettermen.

In the game with the alumni, the Littlemen showed a fast offense and a number of well executed plays. A scrimmage game was played with West Green at the Green Bay gymnasium during the Christmas vacation, and regular practices were held.

Coach Little will start Clarence Koch at center, Donald Dix at forward, Arthur Sager at forward, and Ross Farwell and Jack Van Lieshout at guard positions. In reserve he will have Vils, lanky center; Schwendeman, veteran forward; Grogan, Stinell, Nagel, Heinz, and Van Dyke.

SOCIAL ITEMS

Kaukauna—Miss Annabelle Jones entertained the five hundred club at her home on Wisconsin-ave Wednesday evening. Prizes at cards were awarded to Mrs. Archie Crevere and Miss Barbara Kramer. A lunch was served.

Mrs. Bert Roberts was surprised on her birthday Wednesday evening by a group of friends. The evening was spent playing cards. Prizes were won by Mrs. Nellie Wiggers and Miss Frances Hoppe.

Women's Foreign Missionary society of Brokaw Memorial Methodist Episcopal church will meet at the home of Mrs. H. S. Cooke at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 13. Mrs. S. Engdahl will lead devotionals. Mrs. Wilbert Knox will be in charge of a playlet entitled "Calliope Mites." Supper will be served from 5:30 to 7 p. m.

Lady Knight's of Columbus met in their clubhouse on Wisconsin-ave Thursday afternoon. Plans for a Boston tea party in February were made. Cards were played and prizes awarded to Mrs. J. Goetzman, Mrs. J. Lang in schafkopf, Mrs. J. Mc Morrow, Mrs. Marshall Bayorgeon in bridge, Mrs. M. Maurer and Mrs. Miller in five hundred.

BRIDGE COMMITTEE

MEETS THIS EVENING

Kaukauna—The committee appointed by Mayor E. W. Fargo to handle arrangements for the formal opening of the new Lawest bridge here on Jan. 16, will meet Friday evening to discuss final plans for the program. A summary of the program to be carried out was presented to the common council Tuesday evening by Herbert F. Weekwerth, a member of the committee. The council approved the program and asked the committee to make arrangements for a set of plates to bear the inscription dedicating the bridge to Kaukauna fathers and mothers.

Plans for refreshments to be served at the opening also will be made.

APPOINT CHAIRMEN OF

DOMESTIC EXHIBITS

Kaukauna—W. P. Hagman, general chairman of committees to handle the annual mid-winter fair here, has announced that Mrs. Frances W. Grogan and Mrs. Roy Nelson will be in charge of all domestic exhibits. Both of these women have served on exhibits committees before.

Due to the fact that Gus Sell, county agent, would be unable to be at the fair if held in February, the fair has been postponed until the first week in March. It will be held in the high school, auditorium, and municipal garage on Thursday and Friday, March 4 and 5.

A health clinic will be held in conjunction with the fair again this year, an appropriation to finance it has been made by the city council. The health clinic has been one of the main features of the fairs.

KAUKAUNA KNIGHTS IN CAGING VICTORY

Kaukauna—Sheboygan Knights of Columbus basketball team fell victim to the Kaukauna Knights quint here Thursday evening, 29 to 9. Taking an early lead. The Kaukauna team never relinquished it. The score at half time was 13 to 9 for the Kaws. The Kaw defense tightened during the final quarters, and the Sheboygan cagers were unable to score a point.

The Kaukauna team included Richard Landreman, center; Verbaten and Busch, forwards; Schady and Berg, guards. Other players who saw action were Mark Van Lieshout, F. Melchior, Stanley Smith, Joseph Smith, Carl Chopin and B. D. Rice.

COASTERS WARNED OFF OF HILL IN KAUKAUNA

Kaukauna—Children coasting on Bonville hill were warned away Thursday by police after it was found they were coasting across the road there. Chief R. H. McCarty pointed out that the practice is dangerous as there is too much traffic to allow children to coast across the road there. There are plenty of hills in the city which can be used for coasting without danger to the child, he said.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

REACHING THE RIGHT CONTRACT

It has been my contention that the game invitation to bid in the Official System, so highly regarded by Mr. Lenz and other advocates, is not a good bid in that it preempts the place of a much more important bid. It is of little value in reaching Slams, because of the lack of accurate information regarding honor-tricks conveyed to the partner. The story it tells, if any, is the story of playing-tricks.

The second deal of Rubber No. 20 of my match of 1901 hands with Mr. Sidney S. Lenz showed the following distribution of the cards:

South		North
Mr. Culbertson	Mr. Lenz	Mr. Culbertson	Mr. Lenz
♠ 10 9 7 5	♠ 10 9 7 5	♠ 10 9 7 5	♠ 10 9 7 5
♥ A Q 8	♥ A Q 8	♥ A Q 8	♥ A Q 8
♦ A J 9 8 7 4	♦ A J 9 8 7 4	♦ A J 9 8 7 4	♦ A J 9 8 7 4
♣ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2	♣ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2	♣ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2	♣ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2

Mr. Lenz's bid was 10 9 7 5. Mr. Culbertson's bid was 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2.

South		North
2♥	Pass	3♣	3♦
5♣	5♦	6♣	6♦
6♣	Pass	6♥	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

The result was the defeat of the six heart contract by 1 trick. I, of course, made a trump trick and Mrs. Culbertson made her Ace of spades.

It is apparent that this hand is a lay-down Slam at clubs or no-trump. Our strong defense bidding had precluded the possibility of a Slam being played at clubs, but there was still the opportunity to play the hand at six no-trump and using the Approach-Forcing System of bidding, this result could and would have been reached as follows:

South		North
1♥	Pass	3♣	3♦
4♥	Pass	5♥	Pass
5♥	Pass	6♥	Pass
6♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding of four no-trump, after East's defensive bid of three diamonds, carries two distinct messages, both of great importance in the Slam try. One is the information of the double stopper in the diamond suit and the second, which cannot help but be of value to North, is the information that his void in diamonds is of no value because of partner's high cards in that suit. This suggests also the probability that the hand may play better in notrump than in a suit, due to the invisible rocks of distribution, as in fact, it would.

TODAY'S POINTER
Uselessly high Opening bids are not an aid to reaching the correct contract, but shut out valuable information which would otherwise be obtainable by unforced responses of the partner and possible opposing Overcalls.

OVERSIZED COWS HAVE CHANCE TO BE HERD CHAMPS

Impossible to Judge Merits of Animals by Shape, Experts Claim

BY W. F. WINSEY

Often the cow neglected in one herd and despised on account of her size, shape or both, on being transferred to another owner and being given a fair chance becomes the queen of the herd. Just as often the cow that draws the championships at the fairs on account of her superior type lines becomes the despised cow when judged by her new owner on the basis of her milk and butterfat production.

Someone years ago explained the inability of expert judges to select the best cow from a group by saying that the interior of a cow is a dark, mysterious place that no judge can fathom and discover the value of the milk producing equipment.

At the late annual meeting of the Outagamie-co Guernsey Breeders' association, O. H. Liebers of the Nebraska Dairy Development society, who was one of the speakers, declared, "No one can pick out the best cow in a herd." What Liebers said he wanted to know of a cow before purchase is either her production record or those of her immediate dams.

An Outagamie-co farmer a few years ago pointed out the only cow for sale in his barn for a prospective buyer to look over. This cow was at the foot of the class in the stable. The buyer who was a Waukesha county farmer loaded the cow in his truck and drove off. A few months later the Waukesha farmer returned to Outagamie county to get the registration papers of the cow purchased saying that the cow on test was producing at the rate of 600 pounds of butterfat yearly.

A heifer that won first premium in three fairs not very far distant from the city not very long ago freshened in due time after she had made the circuit and won the highest honors. Her owner put her on test for five months and afterwards fastened her and sold her for beef. The best heifer could do in production was seven pounds of milk daily testing 1.5 per cent.

As the average cow in Wisconsin, and in Outagamie and Brown counties is producing only 200 pounds of butterfat and a large number of cows are producing less than that at a material loss to the owners, and as a shortage of feed exists, the county agents are advising all farmers to test their cows to discover which ones it pays to encourage by

DISTRIBUTE CATTLE FEED AMONG FARMERS

BY W. F. WINSEY

Center Valley—Since Oct. 1, the Center Valley Co-operative Warehouse association has received and distributed among its members seven cars of oat feed; five cars of oats, one car of barley, eight cars of corn, three cars of ready mixed dairy, hog and poultry rations and one car of hay. Since July the association has received and distributed 10 cars of bran and middlings and one car of gluten. Henry Lillie is shipping manager.

commercial feeds and those it does not.

If the cows of a herd are tested, expensive commercial feed may be denied the cow that cannot pay for it and be added to the ration of the profitable cows in the herds, say the county agents.

$500 REALIZED FROM CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE

Kaukauna—More than $550 has been turned in from proceeds of the sale of Christmas seals here, according to Mrs. Olin G. Dryer, health chairman of the Kaukauna Woman's club, who was in charge of the sale. The sale of the seals is sponsored each year by the club to finance the dental clinics held each Friday for school children of the city.

Mrs. Dryer has asked that all returns of the sale be reported to her, and the money turned in by Jan. 15, in order to complete her report.

REMOVE ICE FROM KAUKAUNA WALKS

Kaukauna—Workmen of the two road districts were busy Thursday removing ice and snow from walks about the city. Sand also was sprinkled on the walks where it was impossible to remove the snow and ice. Cinders have been placed near all of the principal street intersections and near arterials.

MANY PORTS BUILT

Washington—Airport construction in the United States went ahead steadily during 1931, despite business conditions. The year saw the development of 99 commercial and 95 municipal fields, while plans were announced for 611 additional fields.

NewPrintedCrepe FROCKS

How pleasant to throw off one's heavy winter coat and reveal a gay, springlike printed frock beneath it. Right now when all your frocks seem a bit drab and wintry is the time to introduce something new and different into one's outfit. That something different may well be a printed silk from Pettibone's. "Ravissant," says Agnes of her latest spring model, a hand draped Tam-Turban fashioned from 'Peau de Gant' the newest of millinery materials

Soft and velvety of texture, the hat of peau de gant is light and crushable. It keeps its nonchalant air expressing the mood of the wearer.

Every woman must have one in black or brown or other colors for immediate wear.
